WASHINGTON, Monday, April 9.

THE CIVIL RIGHTS BILL IN THE HOUSE.

The Civil Rights Bill is a law. The House following the example of the Senate, passed the bill at three o'clock to-day by the large vote of one hundred and twenty-two ayes to forty-one noes. After a rainy and inclement Sunday the sky broke bright and clear this morning, and at an early hour the avenue was alive with visitors proceeding to the Capitol, and before the hour of twelve the House galleries were crowded with spectators. The proceedings of the morning hour showed very plainly the impatience of the House to get at the matter which was supposed to be on the Speaker's table. Several matters which came up in order were peremptorily postponed, others referred, and still others voted down, while the buzz of conversation all over the Hall was so incessant that the Speaker's gavel frequently rapped to order, and the clusters of members and others in the area being the seats were instructed to retire to the cloak-room for conversation.

At the expiration of the morning hour, ten minutes past one, Mr. Jas. F. Wilson, Chairman of the Judiciary Committee, under whose special control the bill had originally passed the House, got the floor, when Mr. Eldridge, of Wisconsin, and Mr. Ancona, of Pennsylvania, simultaneously demanded the "regular order" in the hope apparently of delaying action, but this was promptly met by Mr. Wilson, who moved to proceed to the business on the Speaker's table, which, the Chair said, took precedence of all other motions or business.

The bill and veto message were then read, which occupied one hour.

Mr. Wilson then said that when the bill was before the House on its passage two weeks were spent in its discussion—over forty speeches being made—and opportunity given to everybody who wanted to discuss it. He therefore hoped the House would sustain him in the demand for the previous question, which he then made.

Here the Democrats took umbrage at what they deemed the abridgment of debate, and began to fillibuster. Several dilatory motions followed, when a motion to lay the bill on the table was voted down, ayes 37, nays 121.

The previous question was then sustained without a division, and the main question ordered.

Then began the roll-call leisurely, distinctly and emphatically; the responses coming with equal clearness and emphasis, disclosing as the remarkable result that every member present, with one exception, responded to their names in the regular order of the call of the roll. The Speaker then ordered his name to be called, which done, the vote was read and carefully footed up, and the Speaker formally announced that the Civil Rights bill, having passed the Senate by a two-thirds vote and the House of Representatives by one hundred and twenty-two ayes to forty-one noes, also a two-thirds vote, it had become, according to the Constitution, the law of the land.

This was succeeded by a scene of the most tumultuous applause, both on the floor and in the galleries, lasting for several minutes, and participated in by ladies as well as gentlemen, black as well as white, and amid which at 3 o'clock the House adjourned.

Seldom if ever in the annals of legislation in this country has such a scene been witnessed on the passage of any legislative measure. The House was unusually well represented, there being only 18 members absent, while several others had telegraphed that they were on their way, but failed to arrive in time. Three members were present who did not vote, making 21 members who failed to record their votes. Of those absent, Messrs. Ames of Massachusetts, Anderson of Missouri, Blaine of Maine, Hubbard of New-York, Dumont and Julian of Indiana, Kuykendall of Illinois, Sloan of Wisconsin, Warner of Connecticut, Culver and Williams of Pennsylvania, and Driggs of Michigan, in all twelve and all Republicans, would have voted for the bill. Messrs. Blow of Missouri, Bingham of Ohio, and Stillwell of Indiana, Republicans, and Goodyear, Jones and Chanler, of New-York, Grider of Kentucky, Johnson of Pennsylvania, and Kerr of Indiana, Democrats, in all nine, would have voted against the bill, making the total, in a full house, one hundred and thirty-four against fifty. Mr. Bingham, of Ohio, did not vote because paired with Mr. Williams, of Pennsylvania. Mr. Stillwell was paired with Mr. Julian, and Mr. Driggs, the only other member present who did not vote, missed the opportunity by being unintentionally absent when the roll was called. The Republicans, or those elected on the Union Party issue against Democratic opponents, who voted against the bill were Messrs. Raymond of New-York; Phelps, of Maryland; Latham and Whaley, of West Virginia, and Smith, Rousseau and Randall, of Kentucky, in all seven. Mr. McKee, of Kentucky, was the only member from that State who voted for the bill. Of the Republican members from New-York City and Brooklyn, Messrs. Dodge, Darling and Humphrey voted aye, and Mr. Raymond no. To-night everything is quiet, and there is little or no excitement over "the situation."

TRIAL OF DAVIS.

Mr. Raymond introduced a resolution to-day requiring the President to take early steps for the trial of Jeff. Davis for treason in the civil courts having jurisdiction of the case. It was referred to the Judiciary Committee. This resolution is urged in view of the efforts likely to be made by Davis' friends for his release. The Richmond Examiner and Dispatch of to-day strongly urge application for a writ of habeas corpus in his behalf.

THE TARIFF.

Mr. Morehead, of Pennsylvania, offered a resolution to-day in the House increasing the duties on all imported articles fifty per cent., for six months from this date. On motion of Mr. Hooper it was laid on the table, by the emphatic vote of 107 to 49. This movement of Mr. Morehead was entirely his individual action and did not proceed from the Ways and Means Committee, of which he is a member.

THE LOAN BILL ADOPTED.

The Senate galleries were nearly empty this P. M., and there was scarcely a quorum of the Senate upon the floor until after the House had passed the Civil Rights Bill, when the absent Senators returned, and in few moments thereafter, a vote was taken upon the Loan Bill, which was passed in the form it came from the House by a vote of 32 to 7. Those who opposed the bill generally founded their objection upon the ground that it conferred upon the Secretary of the Treasury extraordinary and dangerous powers. Mr. Sherman thought the tendency of the bill was to give the Secretary power to contract the currency, and thus put an unnecessary strain upon the commercial world. He believed no man should have such power.

A RAILROAD SYSTEM.

Representative Garfield to-day introduced a bill, the consideration of which is postponed till the 2d of December next, proposing a National Railroad system. It establishes, in connection with the Interior Department, a Bureau of Railroads, and authorizes any number of persons, when the necessary capital is subscribed, to construct a railroad from one State to another. The Courts are required to grant the right of way, and appoint Commissioners to assess damages for the land occupied. The bill also authorizes other lines to consolidate and become national railroads, and regulates the character of the track and the tariff of charges. The plan is, in effect, to the nation what a general State law is to a State. The power claimed for the passage of the bill is in the clauses of the Constitution relative to the regulation of commerce, and to establish post and military roads. By this bill the railway business is open to general competition.

A TOUR THROUGH THE SOUTH.

Maj.-Gen. Steedman, accompanied by staff officers and some correspondents of leading papers, will leave here to-morrow by order of the President, on an extensive inspecting tour of the operations of the Freedmen's Bureau in all the Southern States. They proceed first to Richmond and will extend their tour to Texas.

CONDITION OF SOUTHERN LOYALTY.

Mr. Stephen Powers, who has been for the last eight months in the South, as correspondent for the Cincinnati Commercial, testified at length before the Reconstruction Committee to-day, in relation to Florida, Louisiana and Texas. He takes a hopeful view. In case of foreign war, an enemy would not get ten thousand recruits unless the army invaded the country. Officers of the late rebel army are elected to office not because they were forward in promoting secession, but for the simple reason that they, like Northern officers, are the best men in the country. The South is more loyal now than at the end of the war. The noisy declamation of newspapers and politicians is only the natural reaction of the abject terror that succeeded the surrender. The people generally are in favor of paying the rebel debt, but will make very little serious opposition to the collection of the national taxes. The Freedmen's Bureau has been, and still is, a necessity in most of the States, although, after the next Christmas holidays, when the contracts for the new year have been made, it will no longer be needed. It has done a good work, but many of its officers have been incompetent, have speculated on it, and have brought the Bureau into reproach and made it odious. Indiscreet discriminations in favor of the negro and uncharitable disregard for old prejudices and beliefs made the Bureau in some States needlessly obnoxious and curtailed its usefulness. Senator Stewart's proposition offering universal amnesty for universal suffrage would be received, at the South, with contempt. The most obstinate opponents of negro suffrage are the poor whites. The negroes are almost everywhere at work for fair wages. Two hundred thousand more laborers could find ready employment at the South. Three hundred thousand poor men, white and black, will rent land this Summer who never did before. In the last three months the planters have become much more hopeful, and now begin slowly to acknowledge that free labor will succeed.

PROTECTION OF THE REVENUE.

The Commissioner of Customs is providing for the effectual protection of the revenue along the Southwestern frontier, where it has been discovered that considerable smuggling is being carried on by vessels entering the Gulf of California and introducing contraband goods into Arizona. An agent has been assigned to the coast of Texas from Galbuta to Fort Duncan, to be stationed at Corpus Christi; another agent has been appointed to that part of the frontier bordering on the northern part of Mexico, from Diego, California, to El Paso, New-Mexico, a distance of eight hundred miles, and who will be stationed at Fort Yuma.

THE UNION DEAD IN VIRGINIA.

By direction of the Quartermaster-General, Brevet Major James Gleason, Quartermaster U. S. A., will start in a day or two to make a tour of inspection of all the battlefields of Virginia, for the purpose of ascertaining as far as possible the number and location of all the Union dead that have been buried on the field. It is the intention of the Government to have all these remains brought to Arlington Cemetery for interment, where a monument will be erected to their memory.

THE CHOLERA AT HALIFAX.

The Secretary of the Navy received an official dispatch this evening from Halifax, stating it is true that there are cases of cholera on board the steamship England, which arrived at that port to-day.

SINGULAR PRESENTATION.

During the session of the Senate to-day twenty or thirty colored women, laden with bundles of flowers, appeared in the reception room and delivered to the doorkeeper a huge bouquet for each of the Senators who voted on Friday last for the Civil Rights Bill. Attached to each bouquet was a card upon which was written the name of these Senators, and the following inscription: "We exercise the Civil Right to express our gratitude. Signed, Colored Citizens." The bouquets were directly distributed to the several Senators designated, and each particular favored gentleman appeared highly delighted. Those who didn't vote for the bill seemed to wish they had. They looked wistfully at the flowers, but never got so much as a smell of them.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL RAILROAD.

It appears from a communication prepared at the War Department, in reply to a resolution of the House, that the Illinois Central Railroad Company received from the United States, for transportation of troops and supplies, from March, 1862, to April, 1865, $2,592,156, and from other roads $332,113. The Company paid to these other roads $876,436. The net revenue received by the Illinois Central Railroad Company, within the above-named period, was $2,047,833.

RAILROADS LANDS IN THE SOUTH.

The President sent to Congress to-day a message endorsing a communication from the Secretary of the Interior, with accompanying papers in reference to grants of lands made by acts of Congress in the years 1850, 1853 and 1856 to the States of Mississippi, Alabama, Arkansas, Florida and Louisiana, to aid in the construction of railroads. As these grants will expire by limitation on the 11th of August next, leaving the roads for whose benefit they were confined, in an unfinishd condition, it is recommended that the time within which they may be completed, be extended for a period of five years. Judge Edmunds, the Commissioner of the General Land Office, in his letter to the Secretary of the Interior, urges the accomplishment of these important works, which, he says, cannot fail to add to the prosperity not only of the several States but of the entire country. The letter of the Secretary is in accord with the views of the Commissioner. The roads embrace the Mobile and Ohio, the Southern Railroad, the Gulf and Mississippi, the Alabama and Florida, the Pensacola and Georgia, the New-Orleans, Opelousas and Great Western, and other roads. The estimated quantities incurring under these grants are over 11,000,000 acres.

PROMPT APOLOGY.

On Friday last Mr. Wade, in debate in the Senate, charged that it came out in the trial of the Indiana conspiracy case, that Hon. D. W. Voorhees was the keeper of the records of the Knights of the Golden Circle. To-day Mr. Wade rose in the Senate and stated that he had wronged Mr. Voorhees in that statement, and that he took pleasure in saying that the records did not sustain his charge against Mr. Voorhees.

LIEUT.-GEN. GRANT.

Lieut.-Gen. Grant had a conference with the President this morning of several hours' duration.

FORT M'HENRY SHIP CANAL.

The estimates made under the direction of the War Department for completing the ship canal from Fort McHenry, near Baltimore, to the mouth of the Patapsco River, are $2,107,000.

WAYS AND MEANS COMMITTEE.

Representative Winfield, of New-York, succeeds Mr. Brooks as member of the Committee of Ways and Means—an appointment by the Speaker which is regarded as excellent.

THIRTY-NINTH CONGRESS.

FIRST SESSION.

SENATE....Monday, April 9.

DUTIES ON PRODUCE SENT THROUGH CANADA.

Mr. Sherman introduced a bill to remit and refund certain duties, which was referred to the Committee on Commerce. It is designed to free from duties the produce of the United States, sent from one port in this country to another via Canada.

THE NATIONAL CURRENCY.

Mr. Sherman introduced a bill to equalize the distribution of the national currency, which was referred to the Committee on Finance. It authorizes and requires the Comptroller of the Currency to apportion one-half of the circulation now authorized by law among the several States and Territories, according to their population in 1860, and to organize banks where such proportion has not been secured, but only as the circulation shall be reduced as herein provided, so that the aggregate circulation of national banks shall not at any time exceed the sum of $300,000,000. To make such a reduction it provides that whenever the circulation exceeds $20,000 for each inhabitant the excess shall be withdrawn, and if that should not be sufficient the residue shall be ratably withdrawn in States in which the circulation now authorized is the highest for each inhabitant. It provides further, that the Comptroller, with the approval of the Secretary, shall apportion such reductions among the banks in such States and Territories, requiring each to withdraw circulation in proportion as the circulation authorized by it bears to the aggregate circulation authorised in such State. Notice must be given to the banks of the amount of this reduction within six months after the passage of the bill, and within six months thereafter the banks must surrender the amount in currency to be cancelled, and may withdraw a proportionate amount of their bonds on deposit as security. If not made the Secretary must retain the equivalent of such reduction in notes received or interest becoming due.

MINERAL LANDS.

Mr. Sherman also introduced a bill to regulate the occupation of mineral lands and to extend the right of preëmption thereto, which was referred to the Committee on Mining. It opens mineral lands to preemption in accordance with the law regulating preemptions, and with the local customs of miners, so far as not conflicting with United States laws. It allows individuals and associations claiming and occupying a lode of quartz or other rock in places bearing gold, silver, cinnibar, or platinum, to file a plot of the claim and enter it at five dollars per acre, provided there is no controversy or opposing claim, and on the condition that five per cent. of the net product of the mine shall be paid into the Treasury of the United States. If the lands are unsurveyed it shall be lawful after their extension thereto to adjust the extension limits upon the premises according to the lines of the survey, on such terms as to the rights of adjacent claimants as the Commission of the Land Office may determine. It authorizes the Secretary of the Interior to subdivide lands into fractions of a section, and to depart from the rectangular mode of surveying when promotive of the public interest. Agricultural settlers upon lands heretofore classed as mineral, which have no precious metals, are allowed to preëmpt 160 acres at $1 25 per acre. Miners are also protected in water rights to which custom and possession have given them a claim.

GOODS AND MERCHANDISE IN QUARANTINE.

Mr. Morgan introduced a bill to provide for the erection of warehouses in New-York for the reception of goods and merchandise arriving in vessels subject to quarantine by the laws of the State of New-York. It provides for their erection at the west bank on the Lower Bay of New-York, where the goods may be disinfected and purified under the regulations of the Health Officer of the Port. The appropriations required are to equal a similar appropriation by the State of New-York for hospitals at the same point. It was referred to the Committee on Commerce.

IMPORTS.

Mr. Sumner presented a petition for increased duties on foreign imports, where the same is necessary to protect home industry. Referred to the Committee on Finance.

RESOLUTIONS OF THE NEW-YORK LEGISLATURE.

Mr. Morgan presented the concurrent resolutione of the New-York Legislature, prescribing the conditions upon which the lately rebellious States ought to be admitted to representation. Referred to the Committee on Reconstruction.

NATIONAL BUREAU OF EDUCATION.

Mr. Anthony presented the memorial of educational men in different parts of the country, asking for the establishment of a National Bureau of Education. Referred to the Judiciary Committee.

PENSIONS.

Mr. Wilson, from the Military Committee, reported the House joint resolution, declaring the true intent and meaning of the words "In the line of duty," as used in the Pension Bill, shall be construed to embrace wounds received in the service in any way, except when on furlough or in the commission of some unlawful act. The resolution was passed.

REVISION OF THE STATUTES.

Mr. Poland called up the bill for the codification and revision of the statutes of the United States. It provides for the appointment of Commissioners at the rate of $5,000 per annum, to do the proposed work. The bill was passed.

THE LOAN BILL.

Mr. Fessenden called up the bill known as the Loan Bill, reported from the Finance Committee as it passed the House. The bill was read.

Mr. Fessenden said the Committee of Finance had come to the conclusion, after a careful examination, that the bill was well enough as it stood, and therefore they had suggested no amendment.

Mr. Sherman regretted very much that he was not able to concur in the opinion of the Finance Committee. He did not see the necessity for conferring such power upon the Secretary of the Treasury as this bill proposed. It conferred greater power than was ever conferred upon a Secretary of the Treasury. There was an impression in the public mind that the condition of the country was less favorable than it really was. The statement of the public debt did not show an unfavorable condition. There was no portion of the public debt due until August, 1867. The Secretary of the Treasury would not be required to fund any of the debt until Aug. 20, 1867. The first obligations to mature were the first issue of 7-30 notes. Three hundred millions of these would mature in August, 1867. The tendency of the bill, Mr. Sherman said, would be to put it into the power of the Secretary of the Treasury to contract currency, and thus put unnecessary strain upon the commercial world. No man ought to have this power. It ought to be left for the law alone to do so. Every citizen had a right to know how much currency was in circulation at any time, but, under this bill, it would be impossible for any one but the Secretary of the Treasury to know this.

Mr. Fessenden said the only objection he had to the bill was its weakness and not its strength. It gave too little and not too much power to the Secretary. The only consequence to be attached to the bill was that it recognized the principle that, as soon as the good of the country would admit, we should get back to specie payment. The effect of rejecting the bill would be to say to the country that the intention was to expand instead of contract. He did not believe the Secretary of the Treasury would use the power given him under this bill to the detriment of the business interests of the country; because to do so would be to reduce the income of the Government.

Mr. Chandler said that when we had a million of men in the field, and were spending seven or eight hundred millions a year, it was necessary to confer extraordinary powers on the Secretary of the Treasury, but that now that the war was over there was no necessity for conferring that power any longer. He would like a little further time to examine the bill, but it struck him as evil; it conferred a power which no man ought to accept. There was no limit to the amount of speculation that could originate under the bill.

Mr. Fessenden—Only to exchange one kind of bond for another—that is all the power.

Mr. Chandler said there was power conferred to issue forty-year bonds in lieu of five-year bonds. A man who was not honest, possessing power under the bill, could make more money under it than any man in this country had.

Mr. Anthony said that an argument drawn from present returns of the Internal Revenue was not safe to rely upon for the future. In several articles of manufacture the receipts would fall off materially during the coming year.

Mr. Sherman replied to the argument of Mr. Fessenden that there was no necessity for passing the bill to enable the Secretary of the Treasury to meet present or accruing indebtedness; the seven-thirties would undoubtedly be paid in five-twenties, which would postpone the payment of the principal for five years more, or for twenty, at the option of the Government. He could see no objection in passing the bill, except to declare a policy, as Mr. Fessenden had said, that the Secretary would not counteract the currency, but that was his avowed policy declared in his reports. He did not think it wise to give the Secretary so much power. He (Mr. Sherman) had a hopeful view of the future, and believed that the future debt would take care of itself. He expected to go back to a specie basis, but he expected to do so without any material reduction of the currency. The entire amount of currency now in circulation was seven hundred and four millions. He did not believe this was superabundant. No power on earth could keep gold from going down. If the Secretary of the Treasury would just keep out of the stock market and meet indebtedness when due, the people of the United States would take care of the public debt.

Mr. Chandler moved so to amend the bill as to restrict the sale of bonds to this country by striking out the words "or elsewhere" in the following sentence: "And also to dispose of any description of bonds authorized by said act, either in the United States or elsewhere, to such an amount, &c."

Mr. Fessenden said there was no necessity for this amendment. The words proposed to be stricken out were in all the bills on this subject. They did not provide for a foreign loan, but simply that the Secretary of the Treasury might have the power to go to Europe to sell bonds when there was a combination against him in Wall-street.

Mr. Guthrie spoke in favor of the bill, believing it to be a wise measure and conferring no more power on the Secretary of the Treasury than he ought to have in order to enable him to perform his duty faithfully. If he had been in place of the Secretary of the Treasury, he would have done just as the Secretary had done. The bill proposed to give no power that a faithful officer ought not to have. If the debt was to be paid, Mr. McCulloch must have latitude and discretion. He had known the Secretary of the Treasury for years as a banker; had met him in Bank Conventions, and had always known him as an honest, capable and intelligent financier.

Mr. Howe agreed with Mr. Fessenden as to the necessity for returning to a specie basis as soon as possible, but it was the intention of this bill to enable the Secretary of the Treasury to sell a bond for less than its face. He was opposed to allowing the Secretary of the Treasury to peddle bonds in foreign markets. He did not believe there was any necessity for it.

Mr. Morgan said all were agreed as to the object o the bill, but there was a question as to the time it would be expedient to commence the work proposed. It seemed to him the present was a favorable time. The national debt was unprecedentedly large, and ought to be reduced. He was in favor of giving the proposed power to the Secretary of the Treasury and of his exercising it now.

Mr. Cowan said he was also in favor of the bill, and could see no objections to it. It was simply a proposition to exchange short securities for long ones.

Mr. Chandler said the bill proposed to transfer more power to the Secretary of the Treasury than was ever reposed in one man under the Government. He agreed with Mr. Sherman that the best thing the Secretary of the Treasury could do was to sit in his office and pay the interest as it accrued, and let the National debt take care of itself. He hoped the bill would not pass, for he considered it the most dangerous bill ever presented to Congress. He did not believe any judicious financial man would accept the power contained in the bill, if tendered to him. He moved to recommit the bill to the Finance Committee.

Mr. McDougall spoke in favor of the bill. Senators had spoken of the amount of power conferred by his bill. It must be remembered that no free government could be conducted without reposing confidence in those in authority.

Mr. Chandler's motion to recommit was disagreed to.

The question then recurred to amend as stated above. It was disagreed to by the following vote—yeas 6, nays 35.

Messrs. Chandler, Howe, Norton, Sherman and Wade voted in the affirmative. The bill was then passed—yeas 32, nays 7, as follows:

YEAS—Messrs. Anthony, Brown, Buckalew, Clark, Conness, Cowan, Cragin, Davis, Doolittle, Edmunds, Fessenden, Foster, Grimes, Guthrie, Harris, Johnson, Kirkwood, Lane of Indiana, McDougall, Morgan, Morrill, Nesmith, Nye, Poland, Pomeroy, Riddle, Sumner, Trumbull, Van Winkle, Willey, Williams, Wilson—32.

NAYS.—Messrs. Chandler, Howard, Howe, Norton, Ramsey, Sherman, Wade—7.

As passed by both Houses and submitted to the President, this bill is as follows:

AN ACT TO AMEND AN ACT, ENTITLED "AN ACT TO PROVIDE WAYS AND MEANS TO SUPPORT THE GOVERNMENT," approved March 3, 1865:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Act entitled an Act to provide ways and means to support the Government, approved March 3, 1865, shall be extended and construed to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury at his discretion to receive any Treasury notes or other obligations issued under an act of Congress, whether bearing interest or not, in exchange for any description of bonds authorised by the act to which this is an amendment, and also to dispose of any description of bonds authorised by said act, either in the United States or elsewhere, to such an amount, in such manner and at such rates as he may think advisable for lawful money of the United States, or for any Treasury notes, certificates of indebtedness or certificates of deposit, or other representatives of value which may have been issued under any act of Congress, the proceeds thereof to be used only for retiring Treasury notes or other obligations issued under any act of Congress. But nothing herein contained shall be construed to authorize any increase of the public debt; provided that of United States notes not more than ten millions of dollars may be retired and cancelled within six months from the passage of this act, and thereafter not more than four millions of dollars in any one month. And provided further that the act to which this is an amendment, shall continue in force in all its provisions, except as modified by this act.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That the Secretary of the Treasury shall report to Congress at the commencement of the next session, the amount of exchange made or money borrowed under this act, and of whom, and on what terms; and also the amount and character of indebtedness retired under this act and the act to which this is an amendment, with a detailed statement of the expense of making such loans and exchanges.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION.

Mr. Wade rose to a personal explanation: On Friday last he had said in debate that Mr. Voorhies was at one time keeper of the records of the Knights of the Golden Circle. He had since learned that such was not the fact, and he desired to retract the statement made by him on Friday.

The Senate, at 3:45, adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The first business in order was the call of committees for reports to be placed on the calendar. There was no report made under the call.

THE DAVIS RESOLUTIONS ON THE PRESIDENT'S POLICY.

The next busines in order was the resolution introduced by Mr. Davis, of New-York, on the 10th of January, and since lying over under the rule, declaring that this House cherish the most entire confidence in the patriotism and ability of the President of the United States, and in his desire to restore the Union on the basis of permanent prosperity and peace, and that the coöperation of this House is pledged to him in support of the general policy of reconstruction inaugurated by him in the modes authorized by the Constitution, and consistent with the security of republican institutions, on which Mr. Raymond was entitled to the floor.

Mr. Raymond supposed it would meet the sentiment of the House, as it certainly would his, to postpone the consideration of the resolution for the present. He would, therefore, move to postpone it till two weeks from to-day.

The motion to postpone was agreed to.

JEFFERSON DAVIS.

The next business in order being the call of States for resolutions, Mr. Boutwell offered the following:

Whereas, The President of the United States did, on the 3d day of May, 1865, by proclamation declare and make public that it did then appear from evidence in the bureau of Military Justice that the atrocious murder of the late President, Abraham Lincoln, and the attempted assassination of Hon. Wm. H. Seward, Secretary of State, were incited, concerted and procured by and between Jefferson Davis, late of Richmond, Virginia; Jacob Thompson, Clement C. Clay, Beverly Tucker, George N. Sanders, William C. Cleary, and other rebels and traitors against the Government of the United States; and

Whereas, The said Jefferson Davis in the same month of May was arrested by the military forces of the United States, and has since been held in custody thereof, under the authority of the President of the United States; therefore

Resolved, That the Judiciary Committee be instructed to inquire whether there is probable cause to believe that any of the persons named in said proclamation are guilty as in said alleged proclamation, and if so, whether any legislation is necessary in order to bring such persons to a speedy and impartial trial, and that said Committee have power to send for persons and papers; and be it further

Resolved, That said Committee be in like manner empowered to inquire whether there is probable cause to believe that said persons, or any of them, are guilty of treason against the United States, and whether any legislation is necessary in order to bring such persons to a speedy and impartial trial in the district where such crime may have been committed.

The resolutions were adopted.

DUTY ON WOOL.

Mr. Rice, of Maine, presented resolutions of the Sheepkeepers' Association of the Penobscot County and Valley, for an increased duty on foreign wool, which were referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

RECONSTRUCTION.

Mr. Conkling presented the joint resolutions of the Legislature of the State of New-York relative to the terms and conditions on which the States in rebellion should be admitted to representation in Congress. Laid on the table and ordered to be printed.

JEFFERSON DAVIS AGAIN.

Mr. Raymond offered the following, and moved the previous question:

Whereas, The President of the United States has, by proclamation, declared the insurrection in the State of Virginia to be at an end; and

Whereas, The reasons which have hitherto prevented the holding of a court of the United States in said State for the trial of persons charged with treason against the United States have been thereby abrogated and removed; therefore,

Resolved, That the President of the United States be requested to take steps for the speedy trial of Jefferson Davis, who has been duly indicted in said State for said crime of treason, unless he shall be with reasonable dispatch indicted for said crime, and put upon trial in some other district, in which he may be legally liable for trial.

Mr. Stevens—I hope the resolution will be referred to the Judiciary Committee, to which the same subject has just been referred.

Mr. Raymond—I understood the resolution referred to be on a very different subject, relating to the assassination of President Lincoln.

Mr. Wilson, of Iowa—It covers this also.

Mr. Raymond—My reason for offering the resolution was that there were rumors of process being commenced to release Mr. Davis from confinement without his being tried, and I thought it due to Congress to have the subject properly passed upon.

Mr. Stevens—I hope the resolution will be referred to the Judiciary Committee, to which the same subject has just been referred.

Mr. Rogers asked the Speaker whether the question was debatable.

The Speaker replied that it was not.

Mr. Stevens—I move to refer the resolution to the Committee on Judiciary.

The Speaker—The motion is not in order, unless the call for the previous question be withdrawn.

Mr. Raymond—I withdraw the previous question for the reference.

The resolution was thereupon referred to the Committee on Judiciary.

A NAVY YARD ON THE HUDSON.

Mr. Ketcham, of New York, offered a resolution, which was adopted, instructing the Committee on Naval Affairs to inquire into the proposals of locating a Navy Yard on the Hudson River, near Carthage Landing, and to report by bill or otherwise.

INTERNAL REVENUE ASSESSORS.

Mr. Darling offered a resolution, which was adopted instructing the Committee of Ways and Means to inquire into the expediency of reporting an amendment to Section 22 of the Act of March 3, 1865, in such manner and form as shall permit the Commissioner of Internal Revenue to allow to Assessors such sum for office rent as shall be actually and necessarily expended by them therefor.

NATURALIZATION.

Mr. J. M. Humphrey offered a resolution, which was adopted, instructing the Judiciary Committee to inquire into the expediency of amending section 21, chapter 200, of the act approved July 17, 1862, so as to extend the rights of naturalization to persons enlisted in the navy the same as those enlisted in the army.

THE DUTY ON BARLEY.

Mr. Strouse offered a resolution, which was rejected, instructing the Committee of Ways and Means to inquire into the expediency of admitting barley, used for malting, free of duty from Canada and the British Provinces.

THE TAX ON INCOMES.

Mr. Ancona offered the following:

Resolved, That a direct tax on incomes should only be resorted to in a great emergency, and its continuance justified only so long as that necessity exists.

Resolved, That there should be a distinction between incomes arising from capital of every description and incomes arising from labor merely.

Resolved, That it is expedient to distinguish between incomes for a year or less, and incomes possessed by persons who have an interest in the capital from which the income arises.

Resolved, That increased economy should be exercised, and the tax on incomes removed as soon as it shall appear that the ordinary branches of revenue are sufficient.

Mr. Stevens moved to lay the resolutions on the table.

The motion was agreed to and the resolutions were laid on the table.

IMPORT DUTIES.

Mr. Morehead introduced a joint resolution to increase, temporarily, the duties on imports.

The joint resolution proposed to increase for sixty days the existing rates of duties on imports fifty per cent., except on printing paper, unsized, used for books and newspapers exclusively.

Mr. Morehead moved that it be referred to the Committee on Manufactures, and moved the previous question.

Mr. Hooper, of Massachusetts, moved to lay on the table.

Mr. Morrill, of Vermont, appealed to the gentleman from Pennsylvania, as he was on both committees, to withdraw the motion to refer to the Committee on Manufactures, and let the resolution be referred to the Committee on Ways and Means. It seemed as if he mistrusted the last named committee.

Mr. Morehead asked consent to make a statement to the House.

Objection was made.

Mr. Moorhead said he wanted to adopt the suggestion made by the Chairman of the Committe on Ways and Means.

Mr. LeBlond objected and insisted on the rule.

The Speaker notified Mr. Moorhead that he had a right to withdraw the resolution.

Mr. Moorhead said he had no intention of withdrawing it.

The question was taken on Mr. Hooper's motion, and it was agreed to by yeas 107, nays 49; so the joint resolution was laid on the table.

PROPOSED RESTRICTION ON THE ISSUE OF PAPER CURRENCY.

Mr. Francis Thomas offered a resolution, which was adopted, instructing the Committee on the Judiciary to inquire into the expediency of proposing an amendment to the Constitution restricting the power of Congress to issue a paper circulating medium.

CAPTURED PROPERTY AND THE UNITED STATES TREASURY.

Mr. Stevens offered the following:

Whereas, By the several acts of Congress of the 13th of July and the 6th of August, 1861, it is enacted that all the property of citizens of the insurrectionary States found in said States, or in transit between said States or any section of the same and the loyal states, or any section of the same, either by land or by water, and all vessels found at sea belonging either in whole or in part to citizens of the insurrectionary States, and all property wherever situated which may have been used or in any way disposed of in aid of the rebellion, should, when captured, be forfeited and the proceeds thereof paid into the Treasury of the United States; and,

Wheras, The President, by his proclamation of the 16th of August, 1861, enjoined upon all naval and military officers of the United States to be diligent in the capture of such property for the use of the United States; and

Whereas, Large captures of such property, the proceeds whereof amount to several millions of dollars, have been made by naval and military officers, and are claimed by them for their own benefit, and not for the benefit of the general Treasury of the United States; and

Whereas, Such officers have been and are taking measures through the Admiralty Courts of the United States to have such property condemned and adjudged to their own use and that of the Naval Pension Fund, and not to the use of the general Treasury of the United States, so that said fund already amounts to more than $10,000,000, a like amount having been distributed to the captors, the interest of which is more than double the sum required for the Naval Pension Fund; and

Whereas, The question is now pending before the Supreme Court whether such property so captured should be forfeited to the United States or for the benefit of the captors, which question cannot, because of the press of business in said Court, be heard or determined until the term thereof to be held in December next; and.

Whereas, Before such determination in the Supreme Court there is danger that the major part of said property may be distributed to the captors, to the detriment of the general Treasury of the United States; be it therefore

Resolved, That in the opinion of th's House the Secretary of the Treasury should be and hereby is requested to withhold from distribution all the proceeds of the captured property above described to any of the captors or claimants, under said captures, until such question may be determined by the Supreme Court, and that the Secretary of the Treasury be further requested to take such means as in his judgment may seem proper to have the claims of the United States in such cases fully heard in the adjudication of the questions arising under such captures; and the Secretary of the Treasury be directed to make a report to this House of the several amounts claimed by the officers of the army and navy from the receipts of such property.

Mr. Randall, of Pennsylvania, suggested that it should be in the form of a joint resolution.

Mr. Stevens said he was informed that a simple resolution would be sufficient, and would accomplish the purpose desired.

The resolution was adopted.

NATIONAL RAILROADS.

Mr. Garfield introduced a bill authorizing the construction of national railroads, and to establish the same as postal, military and commercial roads, which was read and postponed until the second Tuesday in December next.

MONTANA.

Mr. McLean, of Montana Territory, introduced a bill erecting the Territory of Montana into a separate surveying district, and for other purposes, which was read twice and referred to the Committee on Territories.

BUREAU OF IMMIGRATION.

Mr. Darling introduced a bill to amend the act establishing the Bureau of Immigration and other offices subordinate thereto, which was read twice, and referred to the Committee on Territories.

THE LOUISIANA COURTS.

Mr. Boutwell introduced a bill to provide for the suits, judgments and business of the United States Provisional Court for the State of Louisiana, which was read twice, and referred to the Judiciary Committee.

THE HIBERNIA FIRE-ENGINE COMPANY.

Mr. Randall, of Pennsylvania, offered the following:

Whereas, The Hibernia Fire-engine Company No. 1, of Philadelphia, on the application of the War Department of the United States, and under the order of David A. Lyle, Esq., Chief Engineer of the Fire Department of that City, with the consent and approval of its proper authorities, did send to Fortress Monroe, Va., and to Washington, D. C., and place at the disposal of the War Department their steam engine, horses, hose carriages, hose and other apparatus, for the purpose of being used for the safety and protection of the public stores and property both at Fortress Monroe, Va., and in the capital of the nation, and the same have so been actively and efficiently employed since the 15th day of April, 1862, under the control and direction of the Quartermaster-General of the United States Army; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the thanks of Congress be and they are hereby tendered to the authorities of the City of Philadelphia and the Hibernia Fire Engine Company No. 1 of that city, for the gratuitous use of said apparatus, which has been in the service of the Government nearly five years, and have been the means of saving and protecting an immense amount of public stores and other property generally, both public and private, of great value, from destruction by fire during the period aforesaid.

On motion of Mr. Farnsworth, the resolution was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

THE ILLINOIS CENTRAL RAILROAD.

The Speaker presented a communication from the Secretary of War in reply to a resolution of March 12, stating the amount paid to the Illinois Central Railroad for transportation, &c., by the United States, and the amount claimed by the Company as still due. Referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

THE PATAPSCO RIVER SHIP CANAL.

Also, from the same, an answer to a resolution of April 2, respecting an appropriation to complete the ship channel from Fort McHenry to the mouth of the Patapsco River. Referred to the Committee on Commerce.

POSTAL.

Also a message from the Postmaster-General transmitting a report in reference to a violation of the act to change the organization of the Post-office Department, approved July 2, 1866. Referred to the Post-office Committee.

RESOLUTIONS OF THE NEW-YORK LEGISLATURE.

Also, resolutions of the State of New-York in reference to the Civil Rights Bill. Laid on the table.

The Speaker announced the following appointments to fill vacancies on committees:—

COMMITTEE APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. Winfield to be on the Committee of Ways and Means, instead of Mr. Brooks.

Mr. Radford to be on the Committee on the Pacific Railroad, instead of Mr. Brooks.

Mr. Coffroth to be on the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Mr. Winfield was excused from further service on the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and Mr. Dodge appointed in his place.

Mr. Radford was excused from service on the Committee on the Pacific Railroad, and also on the Committee on Elections.

LAND OFFICES.

Mr. Bingham offered a resolution, which was adopted, instructing the Committee on Public Lands to inquire and report whether the public interests require the consolidation of several land-offices in the late insurrectionary States and the location thereof in the respective capitals of said States.

PETITIONS.

Mr. Van Horn, of New-York, presented two petitions from Wyoming County and one from Genesee County, N. Y., containing 213 names, asking an increased duty on wool.

THE CIVIL RIGHTS BILL.

The morning hour having expired, Mr. Wilson, of Iowa, moved to proceed to the business on the Speaker's table, for the purpose of taking up the Civil Rights Bill.

The motion was agreed to, by ayes 97; nays not counted.

The first business on the Speaker's table was a message from the Senate of the United States, in the following words:

Ordered—That the Secretary communicate the bill to protect all persons in the United States in their civil rights and furnish the means for their vindication, with the message of the President returning the same to the Senate with his objections, and the proceedings of the Senate thereon, to the House of Representatives.

IN THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES, }
April 6, 1866. }

The President of the United States having returned to the Senate, in which it originated, the bill entitled "An Act to protect all persons in the United States in their civil rights, and to furnish the means of their vindication," with his objections thereto, the Senate proceeded in pursuance of the Constitution to reconsider the same, and resolved that the bill do pass, two-thirds of the Senate agreeing to pass the same.

J. W. FORNEY, Secretary of the Senate.

The bill was then read in full, and then the objections of the President to it were read by Mr. Mehaffey, the Reading Clerk.

The galleries were crowded, but there appeared to be little attention paid to the reading of the President's Veto Message.

The members "chatted" so loudly that the Speaker felt it necessary to interrupt the Clerk several times and to appeal to members to preserve order.

The reading of the Message having been concluded, Mr. Wilson, of Iowa, addressed the Speaker.

Mr. Eldridge, asked the gentleman from Iowa (Wilson) to yield for a question.

Mr. Wilson, declined to yield. He said the debate on the bill prior to its passage occupied about two weeks. During that debate some forty speeches were made, and it was not brought to a close until all who desired to speak on the bill had been heard. On the close of that debate the bill was passed by more than a two-thirds majority of the House. It has been returned with the objections of the President to its becoming a law. I do not propose to reopen the discussion of the measure. I am disposed to leave the close of this debate to the President, by the message which has just been read. I ask the friends of this great measure to answer the arguments and the statements of that message by their votes. I appeal to them to sustain me in the motion I am about to make. I now move the previous question on the passage of the bill, the objections of the President to the contrary notwithstanding.

Mr. Rogers appealed for leave to ask one question. [Cries of "No."] He said he wanted to correct a mistake. [Cries of "Question."] The members had not had any notification of the vote to-day.

Mr. Niblack asked the Speaker whether a motion to lay the bill on the table was in order.

The Speaker replied that this point had not been raised during his service in the House, but his impression was, that as the House was now acting under the Constitution of the United States, which directs that, after considering the objections of the President, the House shall then proceed to vote by yeas and nays on the passage of the bill, the motion to lay on the table would scarcely be in order.

Mr. Niblack—And no other motion is in order?

The Speaker thought not.

Mr. Eldridge moved a call of the House, as the gentleman from Iowa refused to allow any debate, and called for the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered and resulted, yeas 32, nays 130.

The Speaker having intimated that in an examination of precedents, he had reconsidered his opinion on the question submitted by Mr. Niblack, Mr. Le Blond moved to lay the bill on the table.

Mr. Schenck made a point of order that the motion was not in order.

The Speaker overruled the point, and stated grounds of his doing so. The language of the Constitution seemed to imply that the House should immediately vote on the passage or rejection of the bill, but on examination of the precedents made by Congress, and many years since he found that Congress had enlarged that interpretation considerably. The House in the Twenty-first Congress had postponed a vetoed bill for a long time. No other Congresses' motions had been made and entertained to recommend a vetoed bill to the Committee in which it had originated. But the decision most apposite to this case was to be found on page 190 of Barclay's digest which had been adopted as the Parliamentary law of the House, binding the members and the Speaker. There it was laid down that a veto message or bill may be referred, or the message alone or the bill may be laid on the table. The Speaker proceeded to quote from the journal of the second session of the Twenty-seventh Congress, where a bill being returned by the President with a veto message, a motion was made to lay the bill on the table. The motion was objected to, as not in order, under the Constitution. The Speaker decided that it was. An appeal was taken from the decision, and that appeal was, on motion of Mr. Millard Fillmore, laid on the table, which affirmed the Speaker's decision. The bill itself was then laid on the table by a vote of 97 to 73, including among the yeas two gentlemen who had filled the position of President, namely: Millard Fillmore and John Q. Adams; also William P. Fessenden, J. R. Giddings, and many others of distinction. when a Speaker made a decision, and when that decision on appeal was sustained by the House, it then entered into the parliamentary law, and his successors were bound by it, unless some rule of the House reversed it and changed the practice. As Congress had, on various occasions, enlarged what the present Speaker deemed to be the strict construction of the Constitution, by allowing a variety of motions apart from the passage or rejection of the bill, the Chair would now hold that a motion to lay on the table was in order. An additional reason was that if two-thirds of the House desired to pass a bill notwithstanding a veto, it was evident the House would reject the motion to lay on the table. The Chair did not see, on reflection, why a majority of the House should not have the privilege of voting on a motion to lay on the table, and to refer it to a Committee.

Mr. Schenck, appealed from the decision of the Chair, and asked whether the question was debatable.

The Speaker replied that it was not, as the previous question was pending, but suggested that he would like the gentleman from Ohio to have an opportunity of expressing his views on the question.

Objection was made, therefore Mr. Schenck withdrew the appeal.

Mr. Schofield asked what vote it would require to lay the bill on the table. Would a vote of more than one-third be sufficient. The Speaker said it would require a majority vote.

The vote was then taken on the motion to lay the bill on the table and resulted, yeas, 37; nays, 121; so the House refused to lay the bill on the table.

Mr. Finck moved that when the House adjourn today, it adjourn to meet on Thursday next. The House refused to order the yeas and nays on the motion, or even to order tellers on the yeas and nays.

Mr. Eldridge moved that the House adjourn, and the yeas and nays were ordered.

Before commencing to call the roll Mr. Eldridge withdrew the motion, stating that the intention was to gag the House. The majority might go on and do so.

The previous question was then seconded, on the passage of the bill, and the Speaker put the question to the House, "Shall the bill pass, notwithstanding the objections of the President?"

The vote being taken by yeas and nays, as directed in the Constitution, resulted, yeas 122, nays 41.

The Speaker directed his name to be called, as a member of the House, and on its being called he voted yea.

Mr. Bingham was paired off with Messrs. Williams and Hubbard, of New-York, who would have voted for the bill. Mr. Johnson, of Pennsylvania, was detained at home by sickness. Mr. Sloan, of Wisconsin, was absent on leave. Mr. Kerr, of Indiana, was paired off with Messrs. Julian, of Indiana, and Stillwell, of Indiana, who would have voted for the bill. Mr. Grider, of Kentucky, was paired off with Mr. Ames, of Massachusetts. Mr. Wentworth stated that his colleague, Mr. Kuykendall, was not present; as he understood he would have voted against the bill. [Laughter.]

The following is the vote in detail:

YEAS—Messrs. Alley, Allison, Delos R. Ashley of Nevada, James H. Ashley of Ohio, Baker, Baldwin, Banks, Barker, Baxter, Beaman, Benjamin, Bidwell, Boutwell, Brandegee, Bromwell, Broomall, Buckland, Bundy, Reader W. Clark of Ohio, Sidney Clarke of Kansas, Cobb, Conkling, Cook, Cullom, Darling, Davis, Dawes, Defrees, Delano, Deming, Dodge, Dixon, Donnelly, Eckley, Eggleston, Eliot, Farnsworth, Farquhar, Ferry, Garfield, Grinnell, Griswold, Hale, Harding of Illinois, Hart, Hayes, Henderson, Higby, Hill, Holmes, Hooper, Hotchkiss, Hubbard of Iowa, Hubbard of West Virginia, Hubbard of Connecticut, Hubbard of Ohio, Hulburd, James Humphrey of New-York, Ingersoll, Jenckes, Kasson, Kelley, Kelso, Ketcham, Laflin, George V. Lawrence, William Lawrence, Loan, Longyear, Lynch, Marston, Marvin, McClurg, McIndoe, McKee, McRuer, Mercur, Miller, Moorhead, Morrill, Morris, Moulton, Myers, Newell, O'Neill, Orth, Paine, Patterson, Perham, Pike, Pomeroy, Plants, Price, Rice of Massachusetts, Rice of Maine, Rollins, Sawyer, Schenck, Scofield, Shellabarger, Spalding, Starr, Stevens, Thayer, Francis Thomas of Maryland, John L. Thomas, Jr., Trowbridge, Upson, Van Aernam, Van Horn of New-York, Van Horn of Missouri, Ward, Washburne of Illinois, Washburne of Indiana, Washburn of Massachusetts, Martin Welker, Wentworth, Wilson of Iowa, Wilson of Pennsylvania, Windom, Woodbridge and the Speaker—122.

NAYS.—Messrs. Ancona, Bergen, Boyer, Coffroth, Dawson, Denison, Eldridge, Finck, Glossbrenner, Harding of Kentucky, Harris, Hogan, Edwin N. Hubbell of New-York, James M. Humphrey of New-York, Latham, Le Blond, Marshall, McCullough, Niblack, Nicholson, Noell, Phelps, Radford, Samuel J. Randall of Pennsylvania, Wm. H. Randall of Kentucky, Raymond, Ritter, Rogers, Ross, Rousseau, Shanklin, Sitgreaves, Smith, Strouse, Taber, Taylor, Thornton, Trimble, Whaley, Winfield, Wright—Total 41.

The Speaker announced the passage of the bill in these words:

Two-thirds of the House having, on reconsideration, agreed to the passage of this bill, and it being certified officially that the Senate, by a similar majority, has also agreed to its passage, I do, therefore, by the authority of the Constitution of the United States, declare that an act to protect all persons in the United States in their civil rights, and furnish the means of their own vindication, has become a law.

The announcement was received with demonstrations of extravagant joy, both on the floor and in the galleries. Members and spectators waved their hats and handkerchiefs, cheering heartily all the while. There were a few hisses timidly ventured upon.

In the midst of the general enthusiasm a motion to adjourn was made and carried, at 3:30 o'clock.

The North American, Louisiana and Edinburgh have all arrived at Liverpool from New-York.

The Argentine, from New-York, arrived on March 25, at Bristol.

The steamship Atlantic sailed on Monday, March 26, from Southampton for New-York.

THE CHOLERA.

Outbreak of the Cholera on Board the Steamship England—She Puts Into Halifax for Medical Assistance.

We give the following dispatches as we received them:

HALIFAX, Monday, April 9.

The steamship England, from Liverpool March 28, via Queenstown 29th, arrived this morning for medical aid. Her dates are four days later.

SECOND DISPATCH.

HALIFAX, Monday, April 9.
11:30 o'clock, A. M.

The agent of the Associated Press has thus far been unable to board the steamship England, no communication being yet allowed between her and the shore.

Every effort will be made to obtain her news.

THIRD DISPATCH.

HALIFAX, Monday, April 9—12:30 o'clock.

It is reported that the steamship England has the cholera on board.

She has been sent to the lower quarantine.

The Agent of the Associated Press is still endeavoring to obtain her news.

The England has 1,200 passengers.

FOURTH DISPATCH.

HALIFAX, Monday, April 9.

The steamship England, which arrived here from Liverpool this morning, had one hundred and sixty cases of cholera on board. There were forty deaths during the passage.

FURTHER DETAILS.

HALIFAX, Monday, April 9.

Capt. Grace, of the steamship England, reports that on Tuesday the first case of cholera occurred, since which time one hundred and sixty more cases have broken out, and fifty deaths have occurred. She was ordered off by the Government, but owing to the rapid spread of the disease, and the engineer's being sick, it was found impossible to proceed. She now lies below the lighthouse. Part of the passengers will be placed on board the hospital ship, and shanties erected on the beach for the sick. There will be no communication with the ship. The authorities are doing all in their power to relieve the unfortunate passengers. There are three doctors on board to look after the sick. She has 1,202 passengers, and 100 crew. The passengers are principally German and Irish. The Captain thinks the disease was brought on board by the German passengers.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The Reform Bill.

The following circular has been issued by Earl Russell convening a meeting of Liberal members: Lord Russell requests the favor of your attendance at a meeting in Downing-street on Tuesday, April 10, on matters of great importance.

The Council of the Reform League have determined to support the Government Reform Bill, and in order to give practical effect to their resolution will hold a public meeting on April 11.

The Times, Herald, Advertiser and Post condemn, with more or less severity, Mr. Bright's Birmingham letter.

The Post says the objections of turning out the present Ministry is the difficulty of finding a strong Government to take their place. The Commons, so little moved by abstract reasons, has again and again supported a bad measure introduced by a bad Government, because it could not see its way to a better.

The Times says the struggle for lowering the franchise and the redistribution of the seats is deemed to be an impossibility.

The Times, on the Reform Bill, says: "Looking at what the Trades Unions accomplish, we deny that the working classes are really excluded from power. In our politics they wield and apply far greater power than any electoral privilege could give them."

LETTER FROM JOHN BRIGHT.

At a meeting in Birmingham to consider the Reform Bill, on the 26th, the following letter was read:

"ROCHDALE, March 25.

"I feel sorry that I cannot be at your meeting to-morrow to witness and to help the expression of the sentiments of Birmingham upon the question which is now exciting so much interest throughout the country. I cannot write as I could speak, but I must write a few lines to you.

"The Franchise Bill now before Parliament is a perfectly honest bill. It will, if it become law, give votes more extensively to the middle class, both in counties and boroughs, and it will overthrow the principle of working-class exclusion, which was established by the Reform Act of 1832.

"It will admit to the franchise so many of the workingmen in all the important and populous boroughs that they, as a class, will no longer feel themselves intentionally excluded and insulted by the law.

"In the counties it will enfranchise 100,000 men, and it may be expected in some counties to make the representation less that of the class of landlords and more that of the great body of the occupiers of houses and land within the county.

"It will enfranchise in London, and in all the great cities, a considerable number of young men and of artisans who live in lodgings or in parts of houses, and it will thus extend the franchise to many not included in the suffrage granted by the Reform Act.

"I say the bill is an honest bill, and if it is the least the Government could offer it may be that it is the greatest which the Government could carry through Parliament.

"Parliament is never hearty for reform, or for any good measure. It hated the Reform Bill of 1831 and 1832. It hated the bill which repealed the Corn Laws in 1846. It does not like the Franchise Bill now upon its table. It is, to a large extent, the offspring of landlord power in the counties, and of tumult and corruption in the boroughs, and it would be strange

The market for Gold is down nearly two ⅌ cent. from Saturday's sales, and Exchange is, if anything, a little steadier at 106@106¼ for standard bills on London. There is some disposition to remit to Europe at current low rates, but not in proportion to the liberal supply of Exchange coming forward against Cotton. A good many parties, too, have lowered their views as to the course of Gold through the next 30 or 40 days, and decline to buy Bills until they can pay for them with cheaper Gold. It is intimated that considerable loans in Gold have been made of the Banks, to be returned in kind later in the Spring. We cannot verify such rumors, but it is quite evident that the prevailing opinion among business people is that Gold must go lower on the disbursement of the May dividends of the Public Debt.

The market for Money is even easier to-day than at the close of last week. Large sums were left with the dealers in Government securities at 5 ⅌ cent., and other Stock loans were made with ease at 6 ⅌ cent., and there is a demand for choice Merchant paper at 6½@7 ⅌ cent. One of our neighbors we notice attributes the ease in Money to the "stagnation" in trade. He evidently wrote without looking into the trade figures of the week past, and without understanding that business in both Foreign and Domestic Merchandise has not been so active in all this Spring as at present, nor the Export trade so important.

A large business was done to-day in Government 7.30 ⅌ cents. at 100@100¼ ⅌ cent. The 5-20s were steady on the 1862s and 1864s, and ⅛@¼ ⅌ cent. up on the 1865s, which are preferred for Banking, because having longer to run at 6 ⅌ cent. in Gold.

The Railways opened with great spirit, and the early transactions of the day in Erie, Pittsburg, Reading, &c., were at a further advance in prices from Saturday night. The buoyancy, though ascribed in good part to the closing up of short contracts, under the apprehension of a still larger rise was kept up until about one o'clock, when the Cholera reports from Halifax caused a sudden reaction, and at the Second Boards in the afternoon there was as much anxiety to put out new contracts, at low figures, as to close up old ones early in the day at the top rates. The extreme difference on Erie alone was 4@4½ ⅌ cent. Other descriptions were 1½@2@3 ⅌ cent. below the best sales of the morning.

Late in the day there was rather more business in the Foreign Exchange, induced by the fall in Gold and the news from the other side of political anxieties as between the great German Powers. Bills on London were quoted at 106¼@106½ ⅌ cent., and there was also a partial recovery in the Gold Room from the cheapest sales of the day.

At 5:30 P. M. the following quotations were made on the Railways actively dealt in in the Long Room of the Exchange Building, such as Erie, New-York Central, Pittsburgh, Michigan Southern, &c. The other quotations are up to the regular closing of the market at the Afternoon Boards of the Exchange:

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

The Fordham Railroad Company—The Astoria Ferry—Henry Clay's Birthday.

The Board of Aldermen met at 2 P. M. yesterday, President BRICE in the chair.

The majority of the Committee on Ferries presented a report adverse to permitting the Astoria Ferry Company to change the terminus of the ferry from Eighty-sixth to Ninety-second-street. The report states that the slip at Eighty-sixth-street has been used for many years, and that there is no special reason why the terminus should be now changed.

A report from the minority of the same committee, (Alderman VARNUM,) in favor of permitting the change, was presented, and both reports were laid over.

A resolution by Mr. ELY, permitting the Ferry Company to make the change, was also laid over.

A remonstrance was received from the residents of Seventy-first-street, against the passage of a resolution designating that street, between Third and Fifth avenues, as a stand for hacks. Referred to the Committee on Roads.

A resolution directing the Fordham Railroad Company to remove their tracks from the Third-avenue, and also from the temporary Harlem Bridge, within ten days; and also directing the Street Commissioner to remove said tracks if the Company do not comply with the terms of the resolution, was referred to a special committee.

A resolution from the other Board, ordering a display of the National colors on the City Hall, on the 12th inst., in honor of the anniversary of the birth of HENRY CLAY, was concurred in.

The Board then adjourned to Thursday next at 2 P. M.

BOARD OF COUNCILMEN.

Contracts for Lighting the City—The Late Fires—The City Inspector's Department.

This Board met at 2 P. M., yesterday, Mr. GREEN in the chair.

Mr. PULLMAN offered a resolution authorizing the Mayor to offer a reward of $1,000 for the detection and arrest of the incendiaries supposed to have been concerned in causing the late disastrous conflagrations. It was laid over.

A resolution was adopted granting the City Inspector thirty days additional for the settling up of the business of his department.

The following resolution by Mr. KEENAN was adopted:

Resolved, That the Street Commissioner be and he is hereby authorized and directed to make a contract for lighting all the streets, avenues, roads, squares, parks and public buildings of the City of New-York with gas, such contract to be founded on sealed bids or proposals, and to be made with the company which shall agree to do the same for the lowest price for each lamp or light per annum, according to the existing regulations, and affording to such company sufficient time to lay their or its mains, and introduce gas as required by the contract. The provisions of the contract last made and executed with the Manhattan Gas Company, so far as practicable, shall be embraced in the contract made in pursuance of this resolution, and the term during which the same is to continue shall be for the same number of years as that contract.

The Board then adjourned to Thursday next, at 2 P. M.

Washington Market.

In undertaking to learn from that unfathomable mystery, the Comptroller's budget, the TIMES fell into error, yesterday, concerning the revenues from Washington Market. Mr. ROBERT J. BROWN, Superintendent of Markets, sends us the following statement:

The receipts from Washington Market during the year 1865 were as follows:

From rents and fees West Washington Market		$61,273 09
From rents and fees Washington Market		47,422 00
From rent of cellars of Washington Market		5,294 00
Total		$113,989 09
The expenditures were:
Two clerks at $1,500	$3,000 00
Two deputies at 1,000	2,000 00
Three collectors at 1,800	5,400 00
Ten sweepers at 420	4,200 00
Two cartmen at 600	1,200 00
Repairs made by Superintendent of Repairs and Supplies, Street Commissioner's Department	3,677 10	—$19,477 10
Excess of receipts over expenditures		$94,511 99

New-York Port Society.

The Port Society have established a Mission at No. 27 Greenwich-street for the benefit of seamen and of the residents in that part of the city whom the hegira of churches up-town has left without a place of worship. During their service last Sunday an illustration was furnished of the fact that the present temperance revival is to be the stepping-stone to a higher and wider reform. The subject of the sermon was the choice of the great Jewish leader in preferring to suffer affliction with the people of God rather than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season. At the close, a weather-beaten sailor, unusually well dressed, and his broad face ruddy with health, arose and said: "There are two sides to that question. Religion sometimes makes a man better off in this life. Many months ago I came to this city from Buffalo. Intemperance had reduced me to want, I hadn't a cent in my pocket. I went to the sailor boarding-houses where I used to be welcome when my pockets were full, but they all turned me adrift. As I walked along the Battery I felt weak from hunger, and I tried to pray and I promised God if he would help me I would serve him. Presently I met a shipmate who invited me to a temperance meeting at the Mariner's Church, on Catharine-street. I went and signed the pledge. 'Now,' said I, 'I have taken one step, I must take another.' That night when I went to bed I couldn't sleep, so I got up and kneeled down and prayed. I obtained at last the Christian hope, found friends who took care of me until I shipped on a vessel in the southern trade, and now I have come back with good clothes, good health, and money in my pocket; religion has made me a good deal better off in this life."

This "experience" given in a blunt and earnest tone was not all like water spilled on the ground. Its effect was apparent on the faces of that sailor congregation, who evidently regarded him, in his new rig and robust health, as a pretty strong argument for temperance.

THEFT OF A DIAMOND RING.

On Friday afternoon last GEORGE WILSON, a man who is well known to the police, went into the jewelry-store No. 158 Bowery, kept by WM. D. BRIGGS, and expressed a wish to some goods with a view to purchase. Several diamond rings were shown WILSON when he coolly pocketed one valued at $550, and ran into the street with it. The proprietor followed the thief in close pursuit, but was unable to overtake him. He applied to the Detective Force for aid, and gave Detective ELDER a description of the thief, who, after considerable search, succeeded in finding and arresting WILSON. He was yesterday fully identified by Mr. BRIGGS as the man who had committed the larceny, and he was committed for trial without bail. The stolen ring was not recovered.

CHARGE OF BURGLARY.

The brush manufactory of WM. B. BURTNETT, No. 45 Fulton-street, was forcibly entered on Friday night by burglars, who carried off about $341 worth of goods. Capt. JOURDAN, of the Sixth Precinct, found yesterday fifty-seven boxes of the stolen goods in the store of JOSEPH LOWENSTEIN, No. 38 Grand-street, whom he arrested on a charge of burglary, preferred against him by Mr. BURTNETT. The accused was required to find bail in the sum of $1,000 to answer the charge. The prisoner is a German and denies his guilt emphatically.

Essex Market—Before Justice Mansfield.

ASSAULTING AN OFFICER.

On the 10th ult., PATRICK FOLEY, residing at No. 119 East Eleventh-street, slept with HUGH GALLAGHER at the New-England Hotel. In the morning GALLAGHER got up before his bed-fellow and carried off his silver watch, valued at $15. Officer DUNLAP, of the Seventeenth Precinct, arrested GALLAGHER shortly after, and he was committed for trial. Since then Officer DUNLAP learned that the watch had been disposed of to PHILIP KROUPA, of No. 48 First-avenue, and on Sunday evening DUNLAP went to KROUPA'S residence, accompanied by FOLEY, and requested that they might look at the watch. FOLEY immediately recognized the timekeeper as the one stolen from him by GALLAGHER, when the officer exhibited his shield of office and was about to leave the house with the watch in his possession. As he turned toward the door THOMAS KROUPA, a son of the man who had purchased the watch, grabbed hold of the officer and presented a revolver, threatening to shoot him. Officer DUNLAP very quietly disarmed THOMAS and took him into custody, and he was yesterday committed for trial in default of $1,000 bail.

BURGLARS IN A LAGER-BEER SALOON.

About 3 o'clock yesterday morning, ALBERT FRIEDLANDER and CARL BOWER broke into the lager-beer saloon of ADELBERT RUMPLER, No. 47 Eldridge-street, and carried off a cheese, a carving-knife, and some few other articles, of the aggregate value of $47. Officer SCHNEITTACHER, of the Tenth Precinct, arrested the burglars as they emerged from the premises, and found the stolen property in their possession. On being arraigned, the prisoners pleaded guilty, and they were remanded for trial, in default of $2,000. Both are Germans; FRIEDLANDER is 21 years of age and BOWER 17.

Jefferson Market—Before Justice Dodge.

ROBBED BY COLORED MEN.

About 10 o'clock on Sunday night, ELIZABETH EDWARDS, residing at No. 175 Greene-street, was going home. As she passed the corner of Grand and Laurens street, three colored men seized her, and using considerable violence, took from her person a pocket-book containing $30 in United States currency, and then ran away. ELIZABETH gave an alarm, and kept one of the thieves in sight until he was arrested by Officer BAIRDE, of the Eighth Precinct. When arrested the prisoner gave the name of WILLIAM M. WILLIAMS, and in his possession was found the pocket-book taken from the complainant, but the money had been removed. He was committed to answer the charge at the Court of General Sessions, without bail. WILLIAMS is a native of Catskill, and 26 years of age.

NEW-JERSEY.

ARREST OF CARRIGAN.—EDWARD CARRIGAN, a glass-blower, alleged to have forced a hot iron into the thigh of a boy named WILSON, was arrested yesterday and taken before Recorder MARTINDALE, of Jersey City, when he gave bonds to answer at the next term of court. A false impression having been created by the previous report of the affair, and which is being made use of for election purposes, it is proper to state that Recorder MARTINDALE did not refuse a warrant to the mother of the boy because she had no money, but on the contrary, tendered his services without pay.

BURGLARIES.—Some time during Sunday night the house of CHARLES A. WALLIS, No. 3 North Fourth-street, Jersey City, was entered by burglars and robbed of spoons, forks and linen table-cloths, in all valued at $100.... Yesterday morning the house No. 161 Grove-street was entered by thieves and four books, valued at $50, were carried away.

ESCAPED FROM STATE PRISON.—During Sunday night a convict named THOMAS SULLIVAN, 25 years of age, managed to make his escape from the State Prison at Trenton. A reward of $200 has been offered for his arrest.

DESIRABLE HOUSE IN ASTORIA

FOR SALE.

THE TWO-STORY BRICK HOUSE, WITH FRENCH roof, near the corner of Franklin and Woolsey-sts., Astoria, is offered for sale, with about four lots of ground. Also, additional land, if desired.

The house was built under the supervision of Calvert Vaux, Esq., Architect, and is in every respect one of the most thorough and genteel dwellings in the place. The outside is of the best Philadelphia pressed brick, walls thick, roof slated, wide verandahs front and rear, with iron railings, &c., &c.

The inside is finished with marble floors to vestibule and hall, heavy black walnut stair rails, thick doors, best marble mantels all through, cemented between ceilings and floors, lately been painted and overhauled throughout; has furnace, water and gas, ample closet room, dumb waiter, &c., &c.

The ground attached to the house is planted with grapes and fruit of choice kinds.

Situation is on the highest land in Astoria, about two miles from and directly opposite the Central Park, New-York, and only about thirty minutes, by steamboat, from Fulton Ferry.

The soil in this location is sandy and dry to a great depth, so that there is never any dampness in cellars in this vicinity; the drainage good, rendering it one of the most healthy situations near New-York. Price $14,000.

Apply to

E. MILLS, Astoria.

ADVERTISING OF THE CITY PRESS.

The Times the Great Organ of the Business Public.

Annexed is the aggregate amount of advertising returned to the Revenue Department, (according to the Herald's figures,) for the thirteen months ending Dec. 31, 1864, and for the year ending Dec. 31, 1865, by The Times and the Herald respectively:

Paper.	1864. No. of Lines.	1865. No. of Lines.	Total. No. of Lines.
Times	1,645,413	1,896,080	3,541,493
Herald	1,443,837	1,655,480	3,099,317
Times excess.	201,576	240,600	442,176

This shows THE TIMES to be, by its extensive and comprehensive circulation among business people, its larger sheet and clearer print, the chief organ of the advertisers of the Metropolis, and the medium of communicating their wants to the public.

Note.—The number of lines in the Herald columns averages about 260, counting short and long advertisements. It seems, then, that The Times published, in 1865, nine hundred and thirty-six columns more advertisements than did the Herald. That fact conclusively decides which paper is the chosen Business Organ of the People.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

EUROPE.

By the Hansa at this port, and the England at Halifax, we have Southampton dates to the 28th ult. The England put in at Halifax for medical assistance, having had one hundred and sixty cases of cholera and fifty deaths during her voyage. She has 1,200 passengers, mostly Irish and German emigrants. The principal topic in England is the Reform Bill, and its friends are giving it active and energetic support. The steam packet Spirit of the Ocean had been wrecked off Devon, and nearly forty lives lost. There are various rumors concerning Austria and Prussia, but few that seem well founded. One is that Prussia has offered Austria fifty millions of thalers if the latter will cede her rights over the Duchies. Another is that the present state of the Austro-Prussian relations is serious, the crisis far from diminishing, but on the contrary becoming more dangerous. And another, that Prussia has not mobilized or dispatched in the direction of the frontier a single regiment. There is nothing of importance from France. A proposition in the Spanish Chambers to reduce the army is opposed, because of the unsettled condition of Europe. The rebellion in China is becoming more alarming.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate, yesterday, Mr. Sherman introduced a bill to free from duties the produce of the United States sent from one part of this country to another through Canada. Also, a bill to equalize the distribution of the currency. Also, a bill to regulate the occupation of mineral lands and to extend the right of preëmption. Mr. Morgan presented a bill for the erection of warehouses for the reception of imported goods on vessels subject to quarantine. The Senate joint resolution declaring the words "in the line of duty," used in the Pension Bill to be applicable to all cases of wounds received when not on furlough or in the commission of some unlawful act, was passed. Mr. Poland called up a bill to authorize the appointment of three Commissioners to revise and consolidate the statutes of the United States, at a salary of $5,000 a year, which passed. The Loan Bill was then taken up, on motion of Mr. Fessenden, and after a prolonged debate was passed—yeas 32, nays 7.

In the House, Mr. Davis' resolutions, introduced Jan. 10, on the reconstruction policy of the President, were postponed for a fortnight. Mr. Boutwell introduced resolutions, which were adopted, instructing the Judiciary Committee to inquire into the probable guilt of Jefferson Davis and others, charged with complicity in the assassination of President Lincoln. Mr. Raymond offered a resolution, which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, requesting the President to take steps for the speedy trial of Jefferson Davis, indicted for treason. Mr. Morehead introduced a joint resolution to increase temporarily the rates of duties on imports fifty per cent., except on printing paper, unsized, used for books and newspapers. The resolution was laid on the table. On motion of Mr. Stevens a resolution was adopted requesting the Secretary of the Treasury to withhold certain captured property claimed by naval and military officers, until the question, now before the Supreme Court, involving said claims, be decided. The proceedings on the Civil Rights Bill attracted a dense assembly of spectators, both in the galleries and on the floor of the hall, including the Governors of Pennsylvania, Virginia and Wisconsin, and a large representation of United States Senators. Owing to the seconding of the demand for the previous question, which cut off all debate, several of the opposition members commenced making dilatory motions, but soon abandoned this system of tactics, and left the majority free to consummate their work. No one seemed to have any doubt whatever of the passage of the bill, the question being merely one as to what number of votes it would receive and to spare over the constitutional requisition of two thirds. During the proceedings there was a loud and continuous hum of voices all over the hall, so much so that even the strong and distinct voice of Dr. Mahoffy, one of the clerks, could not be heard with the usual advantage. The excited Representatives, and those who had the privilege of the floor, were therefore called to order. This demand of the Speaker had the effect of partially restoring quiet, but there was an evident impatience on the part of the majority of the House to come to a vote, and this was reached after an unsuccessful motion to lay the bill upon the table. As soon as the Speaker announced that the bill had become a law notwithstanding the objections of the President, the majority of the Members of Congress, and many of the spectators in the galleries rose to their feet, some waving hats and handkerchiefs, while others clapped their hands, all uniting in oft-repeated cheers. Amid this confusion the House adjourned. The proceeding customary on the passage of a bill over a veto is to make an endorsement by the Secretary of the Senate and the Clerk of the House, briefly stating the action of the respective Houses. This enrolled bill is then deposited with the Secretary of State, like all other acts which become laws. The vote on the bill was, yeas, 122; nays, 41. There were 21 absent or paired off.

STATE LEGISLATURE.

In the Senate, yesterday, the bill to amend the Insurance Department Act was passed; also the bill to incorporate the New-York Women's Medical College; also to incorporate the Harlem River and Port Chester Railroad Company. The bill for a railroad from Glen's Falls to the Saratoga and Whitehall Railroad passed to a third reading.

In the Assembly the bill to amend the New-York Sewerage and Drainage Act passed to a third reading. The following bills were passed: To authorize the construction of a railroad in Hudson-avenue, and other streets in Brooklyn; to authorize the construction of a railroad in Greenpoint and other avenues in Brooklyn; to incorporate the American Society to Prevent Cruelty to Animals; to amend the General Manufacturing Law, so as to include hotel companies; to incorporate the Drew Theological Seminary of the Methodist Episcopal Church; for a railroad from Hunter's Point to Flushing; for a railroad on Maspeth-avenue, Brooklyn; to change the route of the Broadway and Seventh-avenue Railroad; for preservation of the health of animals for human food; to amend the charter of the Hudson and Harlem River Canal Company; to incorporate the Long Island Tunnel Railway Company; for the relief of the common schools in Brooklyn. A resolution approving the course of Senators Morgan and Harris in voting for the Civil Rights Bill was passed by a vote of 52 to 22. The bill regulating gas companies passed to a third reading; also the bill in relation to the payment of taxes by insurance companies of other States doing business in this State.

GENERAL NEWS.

Lieut.-Gen. Grant was arrested at Washington, on Saturday, for fast driving. The officer had quite a chase after the General, and when he caught up the General offered to pay the fine, but refused to be arrested. The officer, having no authority to receive fines on the highway, desired the General to report at the Station-house. President Lincoln's coachman was once stopped for driving on the sidewalk, and told that he must go to the Station-house and pay the fine. This the coachman refused to do; but when Mr. Lincoln ascertained the state of the case, he made the policeman get into his carriage, drove to the Station-house, and paid the fine.

The findings of the Military Commission in the Alexandria riot case have just been published. John Mankin, who killed the negro Anderson, was originally condemned to the Penitentiary for fifteen years; and Lawler, another active rioter, for five years. The President, however, commutes the punishment of the former to five years, and the latter to two. The other rioters are to be confined for six months; the Penitentiary at Albany in this State having been selected for this purpose.

Trustworthy advices from Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Georgia, and Alabama, report that planters are putting in cotton to the full extent of their ability, and that in some sections the amount of land that has been assigned to cotton culture is greater than ever before known. The fears of a scarcity of seed have proved groundless, as seed is found to be plenty, though much of it is risky from being too old.

After four years of litigation, the final decree of distribution was made by Judge Cadwalader in Philadelphia on Saturday, of the proceeds of sale of the steamship Bermuda and cargo. The whole amount realized, $404,449 26, is to be divided among the officers and crew of the United States steamer Mercedita, at the time of the capture about 150 in all.

A remarkable escape of a prisoner at Fortress Monroe was effected on Saturday last. In addition to the barriers presented by the internal arrangements of the Fort, the man was confined in the guardhouse, with a ball and chain attached to his leg. The dispatch wisely states that the escape is "somewhat involved in mystery."

Gov. Hamilton, of Texas, declines to be a candidate for the office he now fills by military appointment. His main reason is that he is poor and without a home, and cannot afford to spare four years of his life in official duties, while his family are in urgent need of his labor.

On one of the New-Hampshire railroads a charge of twenty cents extra is made upon all fares paid in the cars, a check being given for this sum. On presenting the check at the ticket-office the money is refunded. The object of this is to stop the peculations of conductors.

A dispatch to one of the Western papers says: Senator Wade has prepared an amendment, which he will offer when Senator Sumner brings up the bill for the Paris Exposition, that no money shall be paid out under the bill until after Louis Napoleon withdraws the French troops from Mexico.

The Democrats elected their city ticket yesterday in Hartford, Conn., Charles G. Chapman having 233 majority for Mayor, which is 246 less than their majority at the State election. They have a majority in the City Council.

The Brinsley brothers, who have been astonishing San Francisco people by performing all the usual acrobatic feats on a horizontal bar attached to a balloon, 1000 feet in mid air, are coming East.

Another train is to be put on between Portland and Boston so that passengers from this City can go through to the former city direct, and without laying over at Boston as they have been compelled to do heretofore.

A dispatch from Charleston states that Judge Bryan, who was appointed referee in the case of bark C. W. Ring, has awarded $20,000 to the salvers, two-fifths to the ship, and three-fifths to the Captain, officers and crew.

The steamship Tonawanda, belonging to the Boston and Cuba Steamship Company, was wrecked on the 28th ultimo, on the Florida Coast. The passengers and crew were taken off and sent to Key West.

The Postmaster-General will soon issue a postage stamp of the denomination of fifteen cents. It bears the likeness of Abraham Lincoln, and will be convenient in paying foreign postages.

Mr. Geo. Peabody writes by the last steamer that he intends to take passage for New-York in the steamer Scotia, which leaves Liverpool on the 19th of April.

The French company has formally signified their acceptance of the charter of the Virginia Canal Company, as awarded by the Legislatures of Virginia and West Virginia.

Railway communication between Charleston and Augusta, Ga., is now open for the first time since the close of the war.

LOCAL NEWS.

The trial of an action, brought to recover the sum of $4,000 and interest, was commenced yesterday in the Court of Common Pleas before Judge Daly and a jury, in which Phebe S. Rynders, wife of Ex-United States Marshal Rynders, is plaintiff, and the executors of the late Wm. E. Burton, the comedian, are the defendants. The claim is for the amount of two promissory notes—$2,000 each—made payable to Mrs. Rynders, signed by Mr. Burton, on the 1st of May, 1859, and alleged to have been delivered to Marshal Rynders at or about that time. One note was made payable in two years, and the other in four years after date, without interest. The defence is, that if the notes were given by Burton, they were for the purpose of paying Rynders for using his influence with the United States Government in the lease and subsequent sale of Burton's Theatre for the use of the Government; that this was in 1859, when Rynders was United States Marshal of this District; that the lease and sale of the building were for the benefit of the Government, and Mr. Rynders, who had his office in the building, acted as the Government's agent; that the notes in suit having been given by Burton to Rynders for his influence and exertions in the leasing and subsequent sale of the theatre to the Government, there was no valid consideration—in other words, that the contract was illegal and void. The trial will be continued this morning.

Coroner Gamble concluded an inquest last evening, at the Forty-seventh-street Police-station, in the case of the three children of Mrs. Ernestine Schotz, who were murdered on the night of the 17th of January last. The verdict was that the mother smothered her offspring, namely: Caroline Schotz, aged eight years; John Rohde, aged two years and six months, and William Rohde, aged one year and three months. It seems that the woman's husband abandoned her three or four years ago, and took to his bosom another woman. She thereupon made a morganatic marriage with John Rohde, went with him to dwell in a hovel in West Forty-seventh-street, and there bore him two children. Early last Winter difficulties rose, and Rohde threatened to leave her, and fearing that he would execute his threat and leave her, with three children and one unborn, to beg, Mrs. Schotz smothered the little ones and attempted suicide by arsenic. Rohde, since the arrest of his mistress, has been committed to the Tombs to answer as the father of her unborn child.

In the Court of General Sessions, yesterday, Louis Moore pleaded guilty to burglary and was sent to the State Prison for two years and six months; Samuel Moody and Morris H. Snell pleaded guilty to burglary in the first degree, and were sent to the State Prison for six years and six months each; George Lowden pleaded guilty to grand larceny, and was sentenced to State Prison for four years and nine months; Andrew J. Milton pleaded guilty of grand larceny, and was sent to State Prison for four years; Charles Smith pleaded guilty to grand larceny, and was sent to the State Prison for two years and six months; John Casey was tried on a charge of forgery in the third degree, and acquitted; and Gillian Ryerson, who pleaded guilty to an attempt at grand larceny, was remanded for sentence.

In the Police Courts yesterday the following commitments were made: William M. Williams, (colored,) on a charge of having robbed Elizabeth Edwards of a pocket-book on Sunday night; George Wilson, on a charge of having stolen a diamond ring from W. D. Briggs' jewelry store, No. 158 Bowery; Joseph Lowenstein, on a charge of burglary in Fulton-street; Thomas Kroupa, on a charge of having assaulted an officer while engaged in the discharge of his duty; Albert Friedlander and Carl Bower pleaded guilty to a charge of burglary, and were remanded for trial.

The Board of Aldermen yesterday directed the Fordham Railroad Company to remove their rails from Third-avenue and the temporary bridge over Harlem River within ten days. A report from the majority of the Committee on Ferries adverse to permitting the Astoria Ferry Company to remove its terminus from Eighty-sixth to Ninety-second-street, was laid over; as was also a minority report from the same Committee in favor of permitting the change. The flags were directed to be displayed from the City Hall on the 12th inst., being the anniversary of the birth of Henry Clay. Adjourned to Thursday next.

The Board of Councilmen yesterday adopted a resolution directing the Street Commissioner to make contracts with the lowest bidders for lighting the public lamps. A resolution to offer a reward of $1,000 for the detection of the incendiaries supposed to have been concerned in causing the late fires was laid over. The Board adjourned to Thursday next.

A large and interesting meeting assembled in St. Paul's M. E. Church, corner of Fourth-avenue and Twenty-second-street, last evening, under the auspices of the Ladies' Centenary Association. Chief-Justice Chase presided, and addressed the meeting. Addresses were also delivered by Bishops Janes and Simpson. The great theme of the meeting was the building of a Centenary Hall as a monument of the Centenary of Methodism in America.

The libel suit of De Puy vs. Hurford, which has been on trial for several days past in the Supreme Court Circuit, before Justice Mason and a Jury, was summed up at a late hour yesterday afternoon. The facts of the case have already been reported in our columns. The Jury were directed to bring in a sealed verdict this morning.

The New-York East Methodist Episcopal Church Conference met again in Brooklyn yesterday. Resolutions proposing a day for concert of prayer in the churches all over the country for the union of the Churches North and South were referred. The Committee on the State of the Country also reported, and the Conference adjourned till this morning.

Robert James Napoleon Bonaparte Gray, aged eight years, was run over yesterday afternoon by a lager-beer wagon, in Jane-street, and instantly killed. The driver was arrested, after a long chase, in Forty-seventh-street. An inquest will be held to-day.

A branch reading-room of the Young Men's Christian Association was opened last evening in Varick-street. Addresses were made by Wm. E. Dodge, Jr., Esq., and others.

A limited business was reported in most kinds of produce and merchandise yesterday, though buyers had every existing advantage. Light freight engagements transpired.

Gold sold down to 125¾ yesterday, and subsequently recovered to 126⅞ ℔ cent. Money easy at 5@6 ℔ cent. Government Stocks firm. The Railways buoyant in the morning, but were attacked by cholera rumors in the afternoon. Exchange a fraction firmer than on Saturday.

The motion on the injunction in the case of Daniel Drew vs. George S. Scott and others, which was set down for argument yesterday morning in the Superior Court, has been postponed by Justice McCunn to Saturday next, at 11 A. M.

Business is lively at the neat cattle markets, and drovers and brokers were feeling extremely good natured over the rapid sales and better prices for cattle than were realized last week. The arrivals thus far are less than the usual weekly receipts, and most of the brokers acknowledged an advance of 1c.@2c. ℔ lb. The quality of beef is better than has been received for several previous weeks; but after four hours spent among dealers in beeves, witnessing sales and comparing prices and animals, we think that beef is about 1c. ℔ lb. higher than the same quality sold for last week. The poorest lots were disposed of at 13c., and the best at 18c. ℔ lb. The transactions between dealers in milch cows are moderate, and prices unchanged. Trade in calves has been fair during the week, and prices easy, with no improvement since our last report. Taking into account the quality of the sheep offered this week and those sold last week, there does not appear to be any difference in the market. The arrivals are sufficient to supply a moderate demand, at easy prices for sheep well fattened. The swine market is dull enough, and prices declining. Thus far 19 car-loads only have arrived, and prices are down to 9¾c.@10¼c. ℔ lb. live weight.

"High Art" in New-York.—The frauds that are carried on at our popular picture auctions are far greater than those which used to be carried on in jewelry by the Peter Funks. The two sorts of knavery are very much alike. The old style of Peter Funks sold brass jewelry for jewelry of "real genuine gold, eighteen carats fine;" the new style sell the most preposterous daubs for works of the great European masters, "just imported by a celebrated connoisseur." The old style always took pains to inscribe upon their watches the name of some celebrated house, usually in Switzerland, as maker; the new style are no less careful to attach to the canvasses the name of some celebrated artist, usually in Germany, as painter. The jewelry auctioneers on Chatham-street "took in" chiefly verdant and unsophisticated folks from the country, who knew so little about gold and diamonds that they could not tell the real article from the most flagitious counterfeits; the bogus picture auctioneers in like manner flourish by the patronage of artistic greenhorns, who do not know enough about art to tell a great work by an eminent artist from a feeble abortion by some oily charlatan. Those who were "sold" by the brass auctioneer had an advantage, however, over those who get sold by the canvass auctioneer, in that the former soon discovered for themselves how they had been taken in. The watch would fall to pieces, or the works decline to move, or the brass unmistakably indicate its brazen character. But those who are sold in the purchase of sham-pictures are not apt to discover the fact so readily. They display the pretentious hypocrisy on their walls for the admiration of friends and visitors; and years may elapse before they discover, to their mortification, that they have all the time been displaying, as it were, a sort of brass-jewelry in their mansions. We have seen of late large numbers of the most execrable pictures on exhibition previous to being auctioned, with the names of the most distinguished artists in Europe attached to them. Their drawing, their color, and general treatment gave unmistakable evidence to all connoisseurs as to the falsity of the claim of their origin, and yet such pictures have been sold, and others of like character will be sold, for hundreds and even thousands of dollars. And the auctioneers will even display certificates that they were painted by those whose names they claim. The fact is there are now in Germany, France and England, and especially in Belgium and Italy, large paint-shops in which pictures are manufactured wholesale for the American market. The works are made by poor apprentices and poor women and poor journeymen on very small wages; and few have any idea of the enormous extent of the business or the enormous market for such trash that this country furnishes. Thus our unsophisticated citizens are swindled, our native artists outraged, and the national taste for genuine art degraded. We advise all those who attend picture sales to exercise more discretion in purchasing than our picture-buyers have heretofore done.

Warnings of an Unwelcome Visitor.

It would be as unwise to treat lightly as it would be to exaggerate the report which comes to us from Nova Scotia this morning.

The steamer England, of the National Steam Navigation Company's line, put into the harbor of Halifax yesterday for medical assistance. The passage was not an unusually long one; the England having sailed from Liverpool on the 28th ultimo. Yet, it appears, there were one hundred and sixty cases of epidemic disease on board during the voyage; and that no fewer than forty deaths occurred. The passenger list, it should at the same time be noted, was unusually large; 1,200 being the number stated in the telegraphic report. Unless the space assigned to this vast live freight was very much greater than in ordinary passenger ships, and the furnishings otherwise unusually liberal, it may be readily conceived that common bowel complaint might develop itself into something like an epidemic, the progress of which, under the alarm and excitement that would necessarily ensue, could not fail to be exceedingly rapid.

We believe the vessels of the line in question are as well appointed as those belonging to any other company. But we doubt if the very largest and best of the Atlantic passenger steamships ought to be allowed to carry as many as twelve hundred steerage passengers. Whatever laxity there may be in the regulations of the British Emigration Laws, there can be no excuse—in view of the existence of Asiatic cholera in Europe—for the overcrowding of steam-vessels whose owners desire to maintain a good reputation, and do a safe business. We do not say this with special reference to any particular line. The Company immediately concerned are probably quite as free from blame in this regard as any others. What we do say is, that during the season now fast approaching—if the consciences of ocean steamship owners are impervious to appeals made in the interest of humanity—their pockets will most surely suffer before the dog-days are over. The England—obliged to put into a port a thousand miles short of her destination, in quest of medical aid, is also obliged, and most justly so, to go into quarantine, where she may lie for weeks or months; thus losing more by her excessive passenger freight in one voyage, than she can make up in half-a-dozen additional voyages.

The fate of the vessel would have been none the less untoward, in a financial sense, if she had made direct for New-York. It is creditable to the humanity and discretion of the England's commander, that he sought the nearest quarantine he could find. Even if the epidemic on board his ship is of a much less virulent type than Asiatic cholera, he has probably saved the lives of hundreds of his passengers—if we take into account solely the effect of a panic on board a ship, which must surely have been overcrowded.

There is no particular lesson for us to be gathered from the bald facts of this unpleasant telegram. The present may be an importation of genuine Asiatic cholera on the Northeastern coast, or it may not. We have all, in any case, been well warned. There is no occasion for hysterics. But there is good need of the most careful observance of the ordinary laws of health. Thank Providence! we have at last an active and intelligent Sanitary Board. We have had a great abatement of nuisances since the Board has been organized and at work. And while the operations of the Health Commission go on, there only remains for the individual citizen to practice habits of personal cleanliness, to be temperate in eating and drinking, and to pursue his or her avocation without any undue dread of pestilence, native-bred or imported.

Free Speech in Congress—The Rights of Minorities.

We trust that the telegraphic statement that "there is a proposition under consideration by some Senators to urge the expulsion of Hon. Garrett Davis from the United States Senate for the sentiments he uttered in his speech on Friday last," will not be borne out by events. If such a proposition really be "under consideration," it cannot be discarded and forgotten too soon. Or, if seriously urged by any Senator, it should be promptly frowned down by all who would not obliterate the recognition of minorities from our constitutional system, and establish a despotism of opinion of the most intolerable character.

It is not necessary to disclaim liking, sympathy, or even respect, for Mr. Garrett Davis. He has neither said nor done anything to excite these feelings in the breasts of Union men. His speeches in the Senate have been offensive, irritating, and disloyal; and his whole course has served to stir up ill-feeling in the South, to alienate the North, and so to injure the section of which he claims to be considered a special champion. The sentiments referred to in the dispatch were as ill-judged and as insulting as his speeches usually are; and the notification of hostility to the Government, which formed the climax of the occasion, was in every way worthy of the most foolish of braggarts. So far as Mr. Garrett Davis is concerned, therefore, his absence from the Senate would not materially lessen the capacity, the dignity, or the usefulness of that body.

But the absence of Mr. Davis from the Senate, and his expulsion therefrom, are circumstances so widely different that the desirableness of the one must not be allowed to blind us to the injustice and the inexpediency of the other. His voluntary retirement in a fit of chivalric indignation, or in compliance with the request of those who elected him, would not excite immoderate lamentation. His expulsion by the vote of a Senatorial majority, as a punishment for words uttered in debate, would invest him with the influence of a martyr, would excite alarm and indignation amongst the friends of free speech, and would constitute a precedent full of peril to the constitutional rights and the wholesome influence of legislative minorities.

Mr. Bright, of Indiana, was expelled from the Senate because known to be in league with the rebel leaders. For that proceeding the exigencies of a period of war were relied upon as a justification. A nation struggling for its life could not wisely risk the presence of avowed traitors in its councils. But this plea is no longer admissible. The rebellion being ended, the idea of individual rebels lapses; the danger incident to rebellion being over, the measures growing out of it are morally untenable. Whatever doubts may have existed upon this point a fortnight ago, none can exist now. The President's proclamation of peace, with all its concomitants, the restoration of the habeas corpus included, disposes of the last excuse for extraordinary acts. A country in which civil law reigns supreme can have nothing to fear from the widest latitude of debate. Having once more made the soldier subordinate to the citizen, we see nothing in unlicensed talk that should frighten the Senate into the exercise of an authority which the Napoleonic majority of the Legislature of France has not ventured to assume.

The attempt thus to rid the Senate of Mr. Davis' presence will, then, admit of but one construction. It cannot be alleged that the Union is endangered by the rash words of any man, whose spirit, bad as it is, is no more to be feared than that of other extremists. The prevailing judgment will be, that a very poor pretext has been seized upon to remove an obnoxious opponent, and that pretexts will, in due season, be found for expelling other Senators, until none shall be left save those whom the advocates of expulsion choose to tolerate. For is not Senator Saulsbury as amenable to censure as Senator Davis? And if either may be expelled by the vote of a majority for no other reason than that his sentiments are objectionable, whose seat will be safe?

Let it not be said that the abuse of the power wielded by a majority, grows into a system under the auspices of those who aspire to the control of a party organized in the interest of liberty and justice. The days are not remote when the party represented by the Davises and Saulsburys of the Senate were masters of the position there; and though personal violence was then the penalty hazarded by the advocates of freedom, the plan of getting rid of an objectionable member by a vote of expulsion was not resorted to. We respectfully submit that this is not the time when such a method of strengthening a majority can be decently introduced, and that they who favor it now will probably live to experience the consequences of the reaction which will inevitably come. For all legitimate purposes the majority are strong enough already. If to numerical strength they would add the country's confidence, without which there can be no enduring influence, they should learn to regard the rights of the minority with scrupulous care, and to tolerate even offensive speech as preferable to speech arbitrarily suppressed by any means at their command.

The Civil Rights of the Freedmen and the New Judiciary Bill.

The feeling which led to the passage of the Civil Rights Bill was doubtless that in matters which related to the two races at the South it would not be safe to leave the colored men to the local laws and courts; that the nation was pledged to see to it that they received justice, and to that end would have questions which involved their rights determined before the Federal courts in all cases where those questions could not or would not receive a just and equal decision at the hands of the State tribunals. So laudable a feeling ought not to be balked by any failure of the means employed to carry it into action. Those means should be in the highest degree wise and efficient for removing the difficulties in the case and securing, as far as possible, the entire protection of the freedman from the working of those local prejudices in which are to be found the perils to which he is exposed.

It is quite remarkable that the Senate of the United States, before passing the Civil Rights Bill, should have passed a measure without apparently thinking of its having any connection with this subject, the effect of which, since it has also passed the House, will be to weaken most seriously the very protection which the Civil Rights Bill was intended to give. We refer to the bill reorganizing the Federal Judiciary, which has passed the Senate, and is now with the Judiciary Committee of the House.

One provision of this bill is that there shall be no appeal from the decision of any United States District Judge, (and all suits are to be tried in the first instance before the District Judges) unless the amount involved is $500, or unless the District Judge shall certify that the adjudication involves a question of general importance.

At present the amount of $50 involved is sufficient to give the right of appeal from the District Courts. So that we see that just at the time when it is supposed that the Federal courts are to be resorted to for protection by a very large class of poor people, who must of necessity bring small cases before the courts, at this very time it is proposed to increase tenfold the amount necessary to give an appeal of right from the decision of a single judge in those cases.

It is true that the judge may give certificates which will allow appeals, but none the less is he invested with absolute authority over them.

Now we presume that the Federal judges may be less exposed to the ill effects of the local prejudices than the judges of the State courts. But it is idle to suppose that they can be entirely free from them, and this new law making their decisions absolute in these cases is a sure means of making them more subject to their influence.

But again, this bill provides that when appeals are taken from the District Court, they shall be to a Court of Appeals composed of three District Judges, and from that court no appeal shall be of right to the Supreme Court, unless the case shall involve $10,000 in amount, or the construction of the Constitution, or a treaty or revenue law of the United States. This provision would indeed allow the constitutionality of the Civil Rights Bill to be carried to the Supreme Court for decision, but let it once be decided to be constitutional and no question arising under it can be carried to the Supreme Court of right, unless $10,000 is involved. For all cases under that amount the freedmen are placed absolutely in the power of the District Judges in all cases involving less than $10,000. How many cases involving that amount will be likely to arise in which a freedman is a party? Not many, in our judgment, very soon, and we are disposed to believe that there are loopholes enough in the Civil Rights Bill to allow any District Judge of the United States in the Southern States to practically destroy the bill and render it of no effect whatever, without any fear of being interfered with by the Supreme Court of the nation or any other power.

We do not for an instant suppose that the Senate, when it passed this bill, saw that it would have any such effect. Moreover, the Civil Rights Bill had not then passed the Senate. But now the House has passed the Civil Rights Bill before this Judiciary Bill has come before them. It then remains to be seen whether they will, by the passage of a bill which contains such provisions, go so far toward undoing their own work.

Who should be Our Rulers?

We quoted yesterday some remarks from a Boston periodical, pronouncing republican institutions a failure, because "first-class men," such as Phillips, Emerson, Whittier, Lowell, Sumner, Stevens, Wade and Schurz, did not succeed in getting at the head of the Government as our rulers. There is no greater mistake than to suppose the flashy rhetoricians, poets, sentimentalists, logicians, scholiasts, dervishes, romancers and transcendentalists, are the orders of men appointed by Divinity, or fit to be selected by the people, as rulers. There have been Emperors who were eloquent, and Kings who were rhymsters, and Presidents who were humorous; there have been rulers and lawmakers who were great, and at the same time devotees, or sentimentalists, or logic-choppers. But it is a fact that when the professors of the intellectual arts above spoken of have had opportunities of trying their hand at the practical work of government and administration, they have generally made the most melancholy failures. They found it a much easier thing to shine in the placid realms of thought than to master or guide the fierce passions, and conflicting interests, and variant vagaries that rise, and struggle, and clash in the soul of a great nation, and especially during great political and social upheavals. In France, in 1848, after the expulsion of Louis Philippe, a Government of orators and poets and sentimentalists was established—men who could turn the roundest sentences, spin the gayest fancies and strike the biggest lyres—with Lamartine at their head. But of all the Governments that France has had during the last century, it proved the weakest and consequently the worst; and the power was soon snatched from their feeble hands by grim soldiers who had neither elocution nor poetry in their souls—through whom it quickly passed into the Empire. It was the same in the German revolutions of the same period. In Berlin as well as other capitals, they were led, and led to speedy ruin, by professors and scholars and poets and sentimentalists. One of the ablest of these professor politicians (who, in this represents the opinion of nearly all of them) has since made the melancholy confession that the freedom-spouters proved the destruction of practical freedom, and that had the advice and the measures urged in the Parliaments by the apparently dull-headed men of commerce and merchandise and manufactures and practical life been adopted, republican governments would surely have been permanently established. In the great work of carrying on our own war, and carrying through the great public measures necessitated by it, the poets and orators and men of brilliant parts were nowhere; and it was reserved for a leather-dealer like Grant, who can neither rhyme nor, so far as the public knows, reason, and for a "plain man" like Lincoln, to be the agents for rescuing this great nation from the most appalling perils, and triumphing over military and political obstacles that appeared insurmountable. At first we were inclined to look to the flashing orators and glittering intellects for our redemption; but those of this kidney who did attempt to do someting in the practical line made such wretched failures, and their acts of intellect looked so petty amid the gigantic forces that swayed the nation that we soon ceased to look to them in any way whatever. Suppose—to take the names mentioned by the Boston periodical—we had during the four years of war, had Phillips instead of Lincoln for President, Emerson instead of Seward for Secretary of State, Whittier instead of Stanton for Secretary of War, Sumner for Secretary of the Navy, Stevens for Secretary of the Treasury, Schurz to lead the army, and Wade to direct Schurz—does any one fancy we would have fought patiently through a four years' war, and come out of the great conflict victoriously? Taking the utterances of the more literary and intellectual of these men as the guides to what, in great events, would have been their action, and we may safely say that they would have landed us in hopeless secession before the war had been waged four weeks. The truth is, the style of character, mind and manhood required for guiding the great practical movements of nations, and wielding the great vital forces of the world, is altogether different from that which ordinarily belongs to rhetors and rhymsters; and instead of being a discredit to our political system that such men do not obtain control of governmental and political affairs, it is this very fact which secures the permanence and coherence of the Republic.

Salute this Morning.—A salute of 100 guns will be fired at 8 o'clock this morning, by the Union League Club, at Union-square, in honor of the passage of the Civil Rights Bill by Congress.

Washington Market.—The reader will note on our second page, a correction of some accidental errors in an article in yesterday's Times concerning the revenues of this market.

The Steamship Tonawanda Wrecked on the Florida Coast.

Boston, Monday, April 9.

The steamship Tonawanda, Capt. Berry, from Boston, March 16, for Havana, went ashore at 2 A. M. on the 28th ult., on Grecian Shoals, coast of Florida, the weather being thick and squally at the time. At 3 A. M. the steamer commenced leaking; at 6 o'clock she was full of water and shortly afterward bilged, broke in two and became a total loss. Wrecking vessels were engaged in saving cargo. The portion between decks would be saved in good order. The passengers and crew were saved and were sent to Key West. The Tonawanda was owned by the Boston and Cuba Steamship Company, was 736 tons burden, built at Philadelphia in 1864, valued at $100,000, and fully insured $10,000 in Boston, and the remainder in New-York.

AMUSEMENTS.

Academy of Music.—"Les Huguenots" was given last evening for the final time to a splendid house. The performance was good, and therefore requires no further mention. To-night (Tuesday) Flotow's agreeable opera of "Martha" will be rendered, with Kellogg, Phillips, Irfre and Antonucci in the cast. On Wednesday "Norma," for the last appearance of Mme. Carozzi-Zucchi. Mlle. Stella will on this occasion make her début as Adalgisa.

Wallack's Theatre.—The rentrée of Mr. Lester Wallack, after a long absence from the stage, attracted an overflowing attendance last evening. Under very ordinary circumstances it would have done so. The present occasion, however, was anything but ordinary to the habitues from the fact that it celebrated not only the return of the best light comedian now before the public, but also his restoration to health, or at least to that condition of health which permits of his again playing for their enjoyment. Almost twelve months have elapsed since Mr. Wallack was compelled to withdraw his name from the programme of his own theatre. That he shares the gladness of the public in again resuming the familiar position was, we think, discernible last evening in the happy rendering he gave to the part of Young Marlow, in Goldsmith's admirable comedy of "She Stoops to Conquer." It has always been a favorite part with Mr. Wallack, and has never been played better than on this occasion. The genial influence of a thoroughly appreciative audience seemed to mellow not only his efforts but the efforts of all the artists. Mr. John Gilbert was admirable as Mr. Hardcastle. Miss Madeline Henriques was charmingly and piquantly natural as Miss Neville, and Miss Mary Gannon and Mrs. Vernon were alike excellent in their several rôles of Miss and Mrs. Hardcastle. The comedy indeed in every respect was efficiently represented, and gave the heartiest satisfaction to the largest and most fashionable audience of the season. Mr. Wallack's reception was of course enthusiastic. The applause on his entry lasted several minutes. He was called out at the end of the first act, and again on the termination of the comedy, when in a few modest and happy words he expressed thanks for the cordiality of his welcome. "She Stoops to Conquer" will be repeated to-night.

Irving Hall.—"Blind Tom," the eccentric but not retiring, blind but not stupid negro pianist, commenced a series of entertainments here last evening, and exhibited, as heretofore, his marvelous imitative and musical powers. The hall was crowded, and "Tom" seemed to give general satisfaction. He plays every evening until further notice.

Closure of Miss Lucy Rushton's Theatre.—There was no performance at Miss Rushton's Theatre last evening. The fact was announced in a jocular way. A written bill posted on the façade stated that the theatre was "closed by order of the Government." The populace wondered what this strange device might mean. The spiteful said that the Government, after all, took more interest in the theatre than did the public. We ourselves were at a loss to explain the sybilline mystery of the document until one who had been initiated gave us the key to the enigma. There was something, it seems, defective in the Internal Revenue department of the concern. The receipts were either too large, or too small. At all events Uncle Sam obdurately insisted that he did not get his fair share of them, and with a rudeness which we deplore proceeded to extremities. The result was a suspension, and a very bad joke.

Had nature taken its proper course the season, and with it the theatre, would have died peacefully on Saturday next. So quietly has the process of dissolution proceeded that no one would have noticed its final stage. As it is the shock must be borne with fortitude.

It is not improper to speak of the defunct, and we shall endeavor to do so in the spirit of the Latin proverb. Miss Rushton has been but a short time in this country, and is yet unacquainted with its tastes. We are not sure that even with the knowledge she lacks she could have done better as an actress, but at least it might have guided her in the difficult part of managing a small and ill-appointed theatre. Her first essay was in a wretched version of a threadbare melodrama which had been announced in laudatory terms, and which failed utterly. The lady then essayed Shakespearian comedy, and was again unsuccessful. We were among the few who in these efforts recognized some innate talent. The many were neither complimentary nor silent. Suddenly it was noised about that Miss Rushton was to have a theatre of her own. In an incredibly short space of time the rumor crystalized into fact. The lady who had been unsuccessful at one theatre was made the star, and attraction, and directress of another. That she tried to discharge these various duties, and failed, is creditable if unfortunate. We do not desire to dwell on the subject, being persuaded that she might have done better under almost any other circumstances. The fault lay with the associate management, which was noisy, pretentious, ignorant and inefficient. From the frying-pan, this delectable direction stepped superciliously into the fire. Having failed in the commonest of melodramas, it tried the highest of comedies. For the first, it had fine scenery and the general resources of a first-class establishment, (the Olympic;) for the second it had nothing at all except a few hastily-daubed scenes. Failure was inevitable, and it was accepted defiantly. But for the two ingenious and successful burlesques of Mr. Schonberg, it would have been final long ere this. What little success the theatre has enjoyed is owing entirely to the pieces of the gentleman named. The lesson is an unfortunate one, we fear, for Miss Rushton, but it has its value for every one else. It teaches us that the first position here cannot be held except with the entire consent of the public. The community refuses to be taken by the clamor of hardy advertisers. It has its own likings and dislikings, and Miss Rushton's Theatre and Miss Rushton's management have happened to be among the latter.

THE FENIANS.

Departure for the Canadian Frontier—A Transport Chartered.

Portland, Me., Monday, April 9.

About two hundred Fenians sailed for Eastport, Me., (on the British frontier) in the steamer New-Brunswick this afternoon. The boat was unable to take the arms this trip, and a schooner was chartered for the purpose.

Arrival at New-York of an Alleged Agent of Stephens—What He Says of the Situation.

The steamship Atlantic, from Southampton on the 24th ult., arrived here yesterday morning.

Among her passengers is said to be an accredited agent of the "Irish Republic," whose name is not divulged. The purser of the Atlantic sends us a memorandum to the effect that this person accompanied Head-Centre Stephens in his flight through England to Paris; that Stephens is probably now on his way to this country; that at the time of his departure from Ireland, Mrs. Stephens arrived at Cork on her way to the United States; and that all the steamers and vessels of all kinds in the port of Cork were under close watch by the British authyrities in order to prevent Mr. Stephens' escape, although he was then in London, on his way to Paris. Mrs. Stephens made a retrograde movement, took the 10 P. M. train for Dublin, and left for Paris with her sis sister Miss Hopper.

The Irish agent on the Atlantic also brings the following statement, which we publish as received:

"There are in Ireland two hundred and fifty thousand disciplined men all ready and waiting for the order to strike the blow for freedom. The British army in Ireland is forty thousand strong, and is commanded by Sir Hugh Rose, but they are about one-half Fenians, and there is not a single regiment in which there have not been cases of arrest for Fenianism and crying out for Stephens and the Irish Republic."

Hartford City Election.

Hartford, Conn., Monday, April 9.

The result of the Hartford City election to-day was a full vote, and the election of the entire city ticket by the Democrats, totally changes the political character of the City Government. The Democrats elect Charles R. Chapman Mayor over Allyn S. Stillman, the present Mayor, by 233 majority, and Henry H. Fitch Collector, by 200, over H. T. Sperry, the present Collector. They also elect the City Clerk by 200 majority, the Auditor and the City Marshal, and have a majority in the City Council.

Movements of Gen. Terry.

New-Haven, Conn., Monday, April 9.

Maj.-Gen. Terry is here on a visit to his family. He will return to Richmond in a week.

FROM THE STATE CAPITAL.

OUR ALBANY LETTER.

Business in the House—The Civil Rights Bill Resolution—A Spicy Debate—Points of Order on the Resolution—It is Adopted, with but Two Dissenting Union Votes.

ALBANY, Monday, April 9, 1866.

The Senate is not in session to-day, that slow-going and dignified body having, as usual, adjourned till evening. The House proceedings, like grocers' accounts and certain Albany letters in Metropolitan journals, have been "without interest." From this remark, however, I should make an exception or two. A large number of bills have been passed, that are of interest to somebody, but which will probably be lost in the Senate, because that body is far behind the House in dispatching business. A little flare-up occurred just at the close of the House proceedings that was rather racy. Mr. KREIDLER, (Union,) of Steuben, offered the following resolution:

Whereas, In the judgment of this House, the Civil Rights Bill should become a law; therefore,

Resolved, That the action thereon by our Senators in Congress on the 6th inst. is approved, and our Representatives in Congress are respectfully but earnestly requested to vote for said bill, notwithstanding the veto of the President.

Mr. WILBER, (Union,) of Dutchess, moved the previous question on the adoption of the resolution.

A scene of great confusion followed, a dozen members bawling "Mr. Speaker!" at the same time.

Mr. WEED, (Democrat,) of Clinton, rose to debate the resolution, and insisted that he had a right to do so—that a rule of the House provided that if any member rose to debate a resolution it should lie over one day, and that no call for the previous question could cut off this right.

The Speaker decided the point of order not well taken.

Mr. LITTLEJOHN, (Union,) of Oswego, contended that the point of order was well taken, and that the Chair was in error.

Mr. WILBER said the House of Representatives was very probably taking action on the question to-day, and if the resolutions had any effect they should be adopted at once.

Mr. BRANDRETH, of Westchester, (Union,) thought there would be no objection to making the resolution a special order for 12 o'clock to-morrow, and made that motion.

The Speaker—Is there any objection to entertaining this motion?

No objection being made, the Chair proceeded to put the motion, and had taken the affirmative, when Mr. WEED arose and said: "The previous question having been withdrawn, I now propose to debate the resolution."

Mr. WILBER—The previous question is not withdrawn.

Mr. WEED insisted that the motion to make a special order could not be entertained unless the previous question had been withdrawn.

The Speaker—The Chair will rule that the objection to the motion to make a special order is not too late, and that the main question now before the House is, "Shall the main question be now put?"

Mr. LITTLEJOHN rose to a point of order, insisting that the previous question was not before the House.

The Chair overruled the point of order.

Mr. LITTLEJOHN appealed from the decision, and the Chair was sustained—40 to 33.

The previous question was then ordered and the resolution of Mr. KREIDLER was adopted—yeas 52; nays 23.

The only Union members that voted against the resolution were Messrs. ALDRICH, of Warren, and T. E. STEWART, of New-York. The latter gentleman asked to be excused from voting—saying he had been too busy to read the Civil Rights Bill, and did not understand it; he was not sent here to consider such questions. He was not excused, and voted No.

Previous to his name being called, Mr. LITTLEJOHN took his hat and left the Chamber.

Mr. PITTS, (Union,) of Orleans, moved a call of the House to bring back the new Democratic convert, Mr. LITTLEJOHN.

Mr. WEED rose to a point of order, that the gentleman from Orleans had no right to insult an absent member.

Mr. PITTS—Do you consider it an insult to call a man a Democrat?

The Speaker decided the point of order well taken. The motion for a call of the House was lost, and the House adjourned in great confusion.

From Fortress Monroe.

FORTRESS MONROE, Saturday, April 7.

A daring escape from the Fortress of a prisoner, named MICHAEL FOLLEY, a private of Company H, Fifth United States Artillery—under sentence in the main guard-house for mutiny and other misdemeanors—was made the night before last; and so far he has succeeded in eluding the precautions adopted by the officers to effect his capture. The manner of the escape is somewhat involved in mystery. It appears, however, that the ball and chain attached to his leg were sawed off by some means, and, forcing the iron bars of one of the windows of the guard-house, he either precipitated himself into the moat and swam out of the tide gates, or else scaled the parapet, and thus made his escape from inside the Fort. A reward of $50 has been offered for his apprehension.

The schooner Clara arrived here to-day from New-Orleans, having had fine weather during the entire passage.

From Louisville.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Monday, April 9.

Under orders from Gen. THOMAS that all colored troops in Kentucky be disbanded, the Twelfth Heavy Artillery and the One Hundred and Nineteenth Colored Infantry have been mustered out of service.

Col. HENRY HOWLAND, of the Quartermaster's Department, was thrown from a buggy this afternoon, breaking his collar-bone and arm.

Fires.

CINCINNATI, Monday, April 9.

A fire at Edinburgh, Ind., on Friday, destroyed the Johnson house, DONIBERT & Co.'s woolen factory, and RICKETT & Co.'s distillery. Loss $60,000. Partially insured.

ASHLAND, Penn., Monday, April 9.

There was a tremendous fire in this town last night. One whole square was destroyed. Loss about $7,000, nearly all of which is covered by insurance.

Marine Disaster.

BOSTON, Monday, April 9.

The brig Henry Gilbert, from Bonaire, reports March 29, lat. 35, long. 61, fell in with ship Ida, LILY, from Mobile, for Liverpool, and took from her Capt. REED and two officers and the cook of the brig Itasca, of Boston, from Portland, for Cienfuegos, and brought them to this port. The Itasca having sprung aleak and become waterlogged, was abandoned on the 28th. The rest of her crew remained on board the ship.

From Buffalo—Suspension of E. S. Rich's Bank of Exchange.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Monday, April 9.

E. S. RICH's Bank of Exchange closed its doors this forenoon. It is thought everything will be paid. The cause of suspension is stated to be from embarrassment of the New-York house.

From Milwaukee.

MILWAUKEE, Monday, April 9.

Trains on the Milwaukee and Prarie du Chien, and the Milwaukee and St. Paul road are now running regular. The damage done to bridges by freshets have been repaired.

Newspaper Change.

HARTFORD, Conn., Monday, April 9.

Telegraphic Censorship Removed.

NEW-ORLEANS, Monday, April 9.

All restrictions on commercial cypher dispatches are removed by an order from the War Department.

THE COLLECTORSHIP.

Rumors and Counter-Rumors.

Another day has passed and gone, and the District is without a Collector. Rumors thick as leaves, &c., flitted about the City yesterday, and if telegrams could only be relied on, the President had decided the matter in half a dozen different ways. Mr. DEPEW was credited in "well-informed circles" with the good fortune, and cunning schemes were laid all over town by which men who had worked long and earnestly against him, and in favor of everybody else, were to be proven clear and unmistakable original Depew men. It is generally understood and believed that the President had intended to appoint a Collector last week, and that the fortunate individual agreed upon was Mr. DEPEW. The vote in the Senate has been cast since then, and those who think they know all about it, and have thought so for the past three months, declare that in consequence of that exposition of sentiment, the President had concluded to change his mind and perhaps his appointment. However that may be, no appointment was made, and the unfortunates who, during the prevalence of rumors, were loud in their boast of devotion to DEPEW spent the later hours of the day in endeavoring to hedge.

At the Custom-house it was believed that the coming man had been announced, and each clerk began to put his house or desk in order. Full many of them knowing that if a friend of the President should be appointed they would deserve decapitation, trembled in their boots, and with difficulty and embarrassment attended to the duty of the hour. Finally along toward 2 o'clock came a dispatch giving definitely the name of Mr. DEPEW as the new Collector. Very general satisfaction was evinced by the subordinates, (and probably would be under any circumstances,) and a movement was made toward a meeting of congratulation and welcome. Subsequent information dispelled all belief in the report, and then grave doubts were entertained as to whether the aforesaid DEPEW would do at all.

The statement again gained currency that Mr. ODELL, the Naval Officer, had been summoned to Washington, and that if he would take the position he could have it. The condition of Mr. ODELL physically is such that he could not go to Washington if he was summoned, and so far as reliable authority knows there is not the remotest probability that he will be at all molested in the quiet of his office.

The wire-pullers and friends of other prominent candidates who had forsaken Washington in disgust a week ago pricked up again, and started off helter-skelter to the capital where to-day, doubtless, the President will be bored by their continual crying, and persistent application in behalf of their clients. All sides agree that it is high time a collector should be appointed; all regret that a decision one way or the other is not made. In all mercantile and official circles, as well as political, the greatest excitement prevails, and great uneasiness is felt lest the action of Congress on the veto should in some way result in an injudicious appointment, or at all events delay one which is eminently fit to be made. But so far as the great bulk of the people are concerned, it makes but little difference whether the President nominates to-day or to-morrow, this week or next year.

THE TRIPLE INFANTICIDE.

Inquest by Coroner Gamble.

On the evening of the 17th of January last, the three children of ERNESTINA SCHOTZ were found dead in their bed, attired in their best and laid out, their mother, seemingly a corpse, kneeling at the bedside. Mrs. SCHOTZ, however, was yet alive, and after some exertion physicians were enabled to declare her out of danger. She was taken to Bellevue Hospital and there treated, and after about a fortnight Coroner GAMBLE sent her to the Tombs. The stomachs of the children, meantime, were submitted to Dr. R. OGDEN DOREMUS, and the Jury, consisting of Messrs. George W. Clarke, Thomas R. Heiser, Edward Brusle, James Halsworth, Andrew Brady and Alexander O. Alcott, were dismissed until last evening, when the inquest was resumed and concluded. The testimony was as follows:

PETER ECKHERT, of No. 238 West Forty-seventh-street, sworn—I dwell in the yard where Mr. ROHDE dwelt; have known him five years; Mrs. SCHOTZ and ROHDE lived together as husband and wife; did not see ROHDE on the 17th of January until after the discovery of the crime; he entered my house and said that his three children were dead and his wife was sick; he then called Mrs. SCHOTZ his wife; I took a light and went into ROHDES' house and saw the three children lying dead on the bed, and Mrs. SCHOTZ lying sick at the foot of the bed; Mr. ROHDE did not know what to do, and at my suggestion we went to the Station-house to inform the police; when I first saw the children they were clean and dressed in their best and laid out for burial; I saw no cups or tumblers near the bed; at noon on the 17th, I was in Mrs. SCHOTZ's house, and she was then seemingly in good spirits, preparing dinner; the children at this hour were playing in the house; did not know whether ROHDE and Mrs. SCHOTZ had quarreled on or previous to the 17th of January.

Patrolman MARTIN BYRNE, of No. 136 West Forty-eighth-street, sworn—Between 7 and 8 o'clock on the evening of the 17th of January, I went to ROHDE's house and found the children lying in a row on the bed; Mrs. SCHOTZ seemed to be in a kneeling position at the foot of the bed, looking at her children; they were not cold; we held a mirror to their lips, but detected no sign of life; Mrs. SCHOTZ, who was speechless in a swoon, was taken to a sofa, where she suffered a long time under spasms; I saw neither cup nor tumbler near the bed.

AMELIA NAYLOR, sworn—I am sister of ERNESTINE SCHOTZ; saw her between 9 and 10 o'clock on the morning of Jan. 17; remained about an hour; my sister was in deep affliction; ROHDE had said that he would take his two children and leave her if she did not restore a sum of money which he had given her, and which she had loaned; I offered her money, but she rejected it; she made no threats; said that ROHDE did not give her money to provide for the children, and that she was tired of leading this life; I went home, and knew nothing of the crime until I read the account in Sunday morning's papers; my sister has since told me that she gave the children arsenic in a tumbler of water; I asked her why she took the lives of the children, and her reply was that she feared that in the event of her death they might be cast into the streets; she therefore thought it best that all should die together.

Dr. LEWIS SMITH, of No. 147 West Forty-ninth-street, sworn: I was called to see Mrs. SCHOTZ and her children, at about a quarter before eight o'clock, on the evening of January 17; the children, well-dressed, were arranged on the bed according to their ages; there was no froth on the mouths, nor was there any evidence of a struggle; the eyes were closed; there was moderate dilation of the pupils; the mother, who knelt at the foot of the bed had the appearance of a corpse; her pulse was natural; but her limbs were rigid; I applied restoratives, and she revived and went into convulsions; she was apparently unconscious; and during the hour and a half of my tarry she did not utter a word; I administered valerian and ether; made an examination of the house, but found no indication of poison; the children appeared as though they might have been suffocated; I was present at the autopsy on the afternoon of the 18th, and the only noticeable irregularities which we found were a deficiency of air in the lungs, an unusual darkness of the blood, and the partial congestion of the brain of one of the children; do not think that arsenic was given the children; my impression is, rather, that they were suffocated.

Dr. JAMES L. LITTLE, of No. 268 West Forty-second-street, corroborated the foregoing testimony, and added that if the children had been suffocated by strangulation the lungs would have been congested; if by placing a pillow over their faces, the air would have expired, and the lungs would have presented the appearance which they did when I saw them.

Dr. JOSEPH G. SHAW, of Third-avenue, corner of Fiftieths-treet, offered like testimony.

Dr. R. OGDEN DOREMUS, of No. 70 Union-place, Professor of Chemistry and Toxicology at Bellevue Hospital, sworn: Made a chemical analysis of the stomachs of the three children; found no odor of chloroform, prussic acid or any of the volatile poisons; no evidence of arsenical poison; the internal coats of the stomachs presented no abnormal appearance; there were no indications of the action of any irritant poisons on the stomachs and kidneys; there were no indications of vomiting or purging; after an extended series of chemical analyses, conducted with more than ordinary care, detail and expenditure of time, the deponent found no evidence of the presence of any poison; chloroform or sulphuric ether may be detected many hours after death; there are on record where persons are known to have died of arsenic, and yet the chemists have failed to detect the poison, but this was before chemists employed the delicate and searching tests now in use. There are many cases on record where persons have been smothered and the countenances have borne no indication of death from any unnatural cause.

THOMAS LAMB, of No. 289 West Forty-seventh-street, sworn—The eldest child was in my store at about four o'clock on the afternoon of Jan. 17; when I next saw her, in the evening, she was dead; Mrs. SCHOTZ was in my store at about noon, and cheerful as usual.

Coroner GAMBLE charged the Jury briefly, and after consultation they returned with the verdict that the children were suffocated by their mother.

ERNESTINA SCHOTZ, having been informed of her rights, said: "I am a native of Germany, 26 years of age, and have nothing to say touching the charge against me." She was then committed to the care of Sergt. MURPHY, to be taken to the Tombs this morning.

ROHDE was committed to the Tombs a month ago on charge of being the father of Mrs. SCHOTZ's unborn child. The real husband of Mrs. SCHOTZ is said to be living somewhere up-town with another woman.

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

FIRE IN SECOND-AVENUE.—A fire broke out, about 9 o'clock last evening, in the building No. 883 Second-avenue, occupied by F. H. FEIL as a bakery. The flames soon extended to No. 885, occupied as a crockery-store by CATHARINE RALPH, and also to No. 163 Forty-seventh-street, occupied as a tenement-house. All of this property was destroyed by the flames. It belonged to JOHN MOORE. Loss on buildings, $5,000. Insured for $3,500 in the Pacific. Loss of Mr. FEIL is estimated at $2,000. Insured for $1,000 in the Pacific Insurance Company. The loss of Mrs. RALPH is estimated at $1,500. Insured for $1,000 in the Manhattan. Premises No. 159 Forty-seventh-street, both front and rear, occupied as a tenement house and cabinet shop, was slightly damaged by fire and water. Insured for $6,500 in the Tradesmen's, Rutgers and St. Mark's Fire Insurance Companies.

NEW-YORK TYPOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY.—The annual meeting of this Society was held Saturday evening. This is one of the oldest societies in the City, having been formed in 1809. The report of the Directors shows that it is still vigorous and doing a good work among the printers. The publishers do not seem to have remembered the library as freely as in some former years. The makers of books should be well supplied with fruits of their labor, and the Printers' Library show the advance in the profession from year to year. The officers elected for the ensuing year were C. C. Savage, President; A. Miller, Vice-President; T. C. Falkner, Secretary; J. G. Clayton, Treasurer; John Craw, Librarian, C. McDevitt, Wm. Colwell, J. B. Crawford, F. A. Teal, A. E. Parks, A. K. Smalley, G. H. Bidwell, Directors.

KILLED BY BEING RUN OVER.—About 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, a boy aged 8 years, named ROBERT JAMES NAPOLEON BONAPARTE GRAY, and residing with his parents at No. 62 Jane-street, was knocked down at the corner of Greenwich and Jane streets, and run over by a wagon belonging to ELIAS & SMITH's lager bier brewery in Fifty-ninth-street, and almost instantly killed. The driver of the wagon, JOHN WULFHOOP, drove on up town, heedless of the accident, but he was arrested in Forty-seventh-street, after a long chase. Coroner GOVER was notified and will hold an inquest on the body to-day.

ARRIVALS IN THE CITY.—N. H. McCookle and J. P. Moore, South Carolina, are at the Metropolitan Hotel. E. Rollins and S. Marston, Washington, are at the Astor House. Hon. R. Low, Albany; Hon. J. Hoffner, Ohio; Maj.-Gen. E. O. C. Ord, U. S. A.; Hon. R. Topp, Tennessee; Hon. J. G. Masters, Buffalo; Hon. T. Barrett, Augusta; Judge D. Davis, Illinois; and Gov. T. C. Fletcher, Mississippi, are at the Fifth-avenue Hotel.

PREPARING FOR SPRING.—Workmen were engaged yesterday in the City Hall Park in digging and clearing up generally, in anticipation of the return of Spring.

APPOINTMENT OF SCHOOL TRUSTEE IN THE FOURTH WARD.—Mr. MATTHEW MACNIERNY has been appointed Trustee of Common Schools in the Fourth Ward, in place of Mr. WM. WAGNER, resigned.

ANNEXATION OF CANADA.—A meeting of French Canadians and others favorable to the annexation of Canada to the United States, will be held at Clinton Hall this evening.

BROOKLYN NEWS.

PRESENTATION TO A CLERGYMAN.—The congregation of the First Presbyterian Church, corner of Remsen and Clinton streets, presented their Pastor, Rev. Dr. H. J. VANDYKE, on Sunday last, with a check for $7000 as a substantial token of their esteem. The money was contributed in order to enable the Reverend gentleman to purchase a residence.

BREACH OF MARRIAGE PROMISE.—Constable COLGAN last night arrested PATRICK GALLAGHER at Fort Hamilton, on the complaint of MARGARET SHERIDAN, who charges him with seduction under the promise of marriage. The accused was committed to jail to await a hearing.

The Underground Railway.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

The misconceptions existing in reference to the feasibility of an underground railway would astonish us if we had not gotten beyond being astonished at anything. One says, "I don't want Broadway torn up from one end to the other." Another, "It will undermine the buildings and ruin property." Another, "It cannot be done, 'tis an absurdity," and another still, "Mr. CRAVEN says it can't be done," &c. ad nauseum.

Now, the very parties who set up these confident opinions would be among the first to scout the idea that we cannot do what the English have done with ease. Yet, in London, as we all know, they have constructed an underground railway, without trouble. "Yes," says some one, "but it is very different there." So it is "very different." The difficulties in the way of a tunnel there were tenfold what exist here. The system of pipes and sewers and mains there is unknown here. The constructors of the London road doubtless overcame more obstacles in every hundred yards than we would meet here from Harlem River to the Battery. "Oh, but Mr. CRAVEN says it can't be done." Mr. CRAVEN has said nothing of the kind; and even if he had it must be remembered that Mr. CRAVEN is the Engineer of the Croton Aqueduct Department, and is ready to pitch into any one who, for any purpose, comes within touching distance of the water pipes. We do not agree with what Mr. CRAVEN has said upon the subject, and we appeal to every engineer in the country, whose judgment is not biased by some pet like the Croton Department, to say if he has not needlessly magnified the difficulties, and entirely imagined the dangers attending the construction of the tunnel even upon the plan proposed by Mr. ROBINSON, and Mr. CRAVEN referr only to that plan. Now the plan proposed by the corporators named in the bill which has passed the Assembly, differs from the one condemned by Mr. CRAVEN very essentially, and Mr CRAVEN does not and will not say that the road cannot be built as proposed by them.

By this bill everything in connection with the construction of the road is to be done "under the supervision and direction of the Croton Aqueduct Board." The street is not to be opened except here and there where absolutely necessary, and then is to be covered by a wooden bridge spanning the entire width of the street, the greater part of which will be for public use. When it is known that the tunnel will not come within several feet of either sidewalk, the idea of its toppling down buildings will not meet with very serious consideration. The bill which passed the Assembly two weeks since is probably one of the most carefully prepared papers ever introduced into the Legislature. Private and public rights are guarded so thoroughly that no harm can possibly come to either. This same bill has been before the Senate Railroad Committee for two months, and there it continues. The Committee will not even report against it, and the Senate, therefore, has not been enabled to take action upon it. Thus three votes (out of a committee of five) of the entire Senate keep back this enterprise. Is it not an outrage that such a measure can be thus stifled, and is it not time that the opinion of the New-York public should be so expressed as not to be misunderstood?

R. R. R.
THE MEDICAL BALANCE SHEET.
COST OF CURE.
Illustrated by
FACTS AND FIGURES.
READ AND COMPARE.

There are two especial points connected with the treatment of disease upon which the sick require, and have a right to expect, accurate information.

In the first place they desire to know what medicines will certainly and speedily restore them to health; and in the second place what will be the expense of a complete and radical cure.

By contrasting the moderate cost of

with the heavy expense involved in employing a physician, and procuring the medicines he may prescribe, it will be seen that may be saved by resorting to the three carefully prepared vegetable specifics known as RADWAY'S READY RELIEF, RADWAY'S REGULATING PILLS and RADWAY'S RENOVATING RESOLVENT, which comprehend within remedial range all types of acute and chronic disease. This can be made manifest by a few illustrations based on facts. To begin with the READY RELIEF.

SEVERAL THOUSAND PER CENT.

Case 985.—Henry R. Morton, New-York City, is seized with severe vomiting and purging, accompanied by cold chills, and violent pain in the bowels. A physician is called. He treats the patient for CHOLERA MORBUS. First visit $3; cost of prescription 75 cents. Second visit, next day, $3. Change of treatment. New prescription $1. Patient still suffering and sinking fast. At this stage the READY RELIEF is suggested. One bottle 50 cents. A teaspoonful in water is given and an application made to the stomach and abdomen. Pain ceases—vomiting is stopped—discharges are checked—system recovers its tone—strength is restored. Patient perspires freely, and falls into a refreshing sleep. Cure complete.

NOW BALANCE THE ACCOUNT.

Physician's bill, $6; prescriptions (utterly useless) $1 75	$7 75
Bottle of Ready Relief (which effects a cure, with three-fourths of the bottle spared for other exigencies)	50
Balance in favor of READY RELIEF	$7 25

Case 1,169.—Freeman L. Forsyth, Brooklyn, is attacked with Ague and Fever. Medical man called in. Charge $3 per visit. Looks in daily for a fortnight. Prescribes quinine, peperine, arsenic, morphine, &c. Prescriptions costly, averaging $1 per day. No perceptible improvement in patient. Advised to try READY RELIEF and REGULATING PILLS. Relief 50 cents per bottle, Pills 25 cents per box. Half a dozen doses of the Relief, diluted according to directions, break up the fits, and two or three doses of the Pills remove the malarious virus of the disease entirely from the system.

Post the books again:

Physician's account—14 visits at $3 each, $42; prescriptions, $10, (and no benefit)	$52 00
Relief, 50 cents; Pills, 25 cents, (a portion of which effect a cure, being a surplus for future use)	75
Balance in favor of READY RELIEF	$51 25

Case 2,631.—James B. Hendrick, New-York City night attack of violent Bilious Colic. Doctor called in. Visit $3. Second visit in the morning $3. Third, in the afternoon, $3. Prescriptions $4. Patient still in agony and pulse and strength failing. At this stage the RELIEF administered, paroxysms of pain arrested, and cure perfected by the assistance of a few doses of the REGULATING PILLS, which carry off the corrupt and acrid humors that caused the attack.

Compare again:

Physician's charge, $9; Prescriptions, $4	$13 00
RELIEF and PILLS, (with more than a dozen doses yet on hand)	75
Balance in favor of the RELIEF	$12 25

RADWAY'S READY RELIEF is a household medicine which no prudent family that understands its value will ever be without. It instantly arrests pain, and its effects as a defensive stimulant, anodyne and nervine in cholera, cholera morbus, bilious colic, spasms, fits, malarious diseases, &c., transcend those of any other preparation known. As an external application for burns, wounds, scalds, bruises, &c., it has no equal.

Pass on to

RADWAY'S REGULATING PILLS.

Case 892.—W. A. Stuart, New-York City, a martyr to chronic dyspepsia, complicated with liver complaint. Physician's bill for one year's attendance, $200. Prescriptions, $100. No improvement. Appetite gone, sickness at the stomach, terrible oppression after eating, bowels irregular, complexion cadaverous, body emaciated, pain between the shoulders and in the right side, great debility, spirits depressed. In this condition patient resorts to a course of the REGULATING PILLS. After the first two doses the distressing symptoms sensibly abate, and the patient, persevering in the use of the remedy, (and adopting such rules in regard to diet, &c., as common sense suggest,) is soon perfectly well. Four boxes, 25c. each, suffice to banish every relic of the complaint.

Contrast the cost:

Medical attendance for one year, $200; medicines, $100; (of no avail)	$300
Four boxes of the REGULATING PILLS, at 25c. each, (and a cure perfected)	1
Balance in favor of REGULATING PILLS	$299

Case 1,236.—Marcus W. Mount, long a sufferer from liver complaint, has paid, he says, at different times, about $250 to physicians, and he thinks as much more for medicines. Is induced to try the REGULATING PILLS, with occasional doses of the RENOVATING RESOLVENT, to assist in removing from his system the effects of the mercurial treatment to which he has been subjected. Soon feels the benefit of the change. Takes, in all, five boxes of the Pills and three bottles of the Resolvent, and at the end of the course is "as well as he ever was in his life."

Glance at the account current below:

Bills for medical attendance, $250; outlay for prescriptions, $250 (so much money thrown away)	$500 00
Five boxes of REGULATING PILLS, $1 25; three bottles of RESOLVENT at $1 each, $3—(disease removed)	4 25
Balance in favor of REGULATING PILLS and RESOLVENT	$495 75

The REGULATING PILLS possess the alterative, anti-bilious and disenfectant properties of Mercury, without any of its pernicious attributes. They are manufactured in vacuo from concentrated vegetable extracts, and are an absolute specific for all disorders of the stomach, liver, bowels and kidneys. They tone the system while relieving the bowels from vaccid humors, and control the liver more readily than blue pills or any preparation of quicksilver, or its salts or oxides.

And now a few words about the effects of the

RENOVATING RESOLVENT.

Case 1,969.—Zachary N. Lathrop, New-York City, a sufferer from chronic scrofula; has been long under physicians' hands; has twice had the disorder suppressed with blue pill and mercurial ointment, but only to reappear in another and more malignant form; has been repeatedly salivated, and suffers from mercurial disease complicated with the original disorder. Supposes he has paid for medical attendance and costly drugs, such as iodine, hyd. potash, corrosive sublimate, extracts of sarsaparilla, various acids, &c., over $350. Is recommended to give the RENOVATING RESOLVENT a trial. Before the first bottle is finished there is a manifest change in the appearance of the sores with which he is affected. As the medicine is continued they begin to heal, and after a course of six bottles he is a sound man. The mercury is out of his system, and the disease is not suppressed, but eradicated. Once more pure, uncontaminated blood runs in his veins, and his health and vigor are completely restored.

Strike the balance:

To medical advice and medication, (worse than useless)	$350
To six bottles of RENOVATING RESOLVENT, at $1 per bottle, by which the priceless blessing of health is restored	6
Balance in favor of the RESOLVENT	$344

Case 1,064.—Sergt. B. A. Cole, New-York City, a returned volunteer. Complaint, chronic rheumatism, produced by exposure during the war. Was one month "under treatment" since his discharge. Received during that time twenty visits from his physician. Visits $3 each. Cost of medicines prescribed, consisting of colchecum, gum guiac, quinine, morphene, hyoscyamus, &c.—all expensive—and various embrocations, $1 50 per day on an average. Whole amount paid for prescriptions, $45. Not the slightest change for the better produced. RENOVATING RESOLVENT and READY RELIEF (as an external application) recommended by physicians as a dernier resort. Result immediately beneficial. Patient convalescent in three days. Within four weeks, pain, swellings, contractions and all other symptoms removed. A radical cure. Number of bottles of RESOLVENT taken, four, and half a dozen bottles of RELIEF, used as an external remedy.

Look again at the comparative expense:

Physician's fees, $60; medication, $45—all to no purpose	$105
Four bottles of the RESOLVENT, at $1 each, and six bottles of RELIEF, at 50 cents, (every trace of the disease eradicated)	7
Balance in favor of the RESOLVENT and RELIEF	$98

RADWAY'S RENOVATING RESOLVENT is the most perfect depurative, and the most powerful restorative that has ever been derived from the vegetable kingdom. It eliminates from the blood every trace of scrofulous or syphilitic virus, eradicates mercurial disease, and is the only preparation which can be depended upon for a thorough cure in tumorous, cancerous, and other consuming diseases of the fleshy fibre. In salt rheum, erysipelas, and all cutaneous eruptions, it is equally efficacious; and as its effect is not merely to suppress symptoms, but to remove their morbific causes, the cures it effects are always permanent, one bottle of it containing more of the active disinfectant and purifying principle of Sarsaparilla than is diffused through one gallon of the ordinary extracts of that root.

The above comparative view of the expense of ordinary medication and of the cost of cure through the agency of RADWAY'S REMEDIES, is not in the slightest degree overdrawn. It is founded on testimony in the possession of Dr. Radway, and accessible to all who desire to examine it. The sole object has been to ILLUSTRATE FACTS, in a familiar way, by exhibiting an between disease and the stereotyped practice on the one hand, and Dr. RADWAY'S REMEDIES on the other. If, however, the balance is several thousand per cent. in favor of the latter in an economic point of view it is infinitely greater in a sanitary sense. As regards cost a comparison may be instituted, but not as regards remedial value. The superiority of the READY RELIEF, REGULATING PILLS and RENOVATING RESOLVENT, over all other medicines of the classes to which they belong has been made too manifest to be successfully disputed in any quarter, and is too great to admit of computation.

PULMONARY CONSUMPTION
in New-York,
BY SCHENCK'S
PULMONIC SYRUP,
SEAWEED TONIC
AND MANDRAKE'S PILLS.

Miss Catherine Collins is now a living testimony of the effects of Dr. Schenck's medicine. She resides at No. 211 Mott-st., New-York. Dr. Schenck visited her about the 1st of February last. He found her apparently in the last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, and, from all appearances could not last more than three weeks. Her left lung, from bottom to top, was nothing but a mass of corruption. The right bronchial tubes were also affected, but no cavities. She had night sweats, chills, and flushes of heat at times; could not lie down, but had to be propped up in a chair. Her mother said that her husband and several of her children had died in the same way. They were poor, and not able to buy medicine, but Dr. Schenck took an interest in her, and gave her medicine, and cured her. Now, any one that has a cough or lung disease should call and see her. It gives them more confidence in Dr. Schenck's medicines. They will find a quite hearty-looking person, with right lung sounding full, clear, with respiration healthy and natural, and the left one dead, sounding as though what was left was solid and useless. Still she, like Dr. Schenck, lives with one lung, and enjoys good health. She was cured because she was confined to her room. Many of Dr. Schenck's certificates you read seem almost improbable, but by inquiring they find them not exaggerated. They were bedfast until their lungs healed, and took no cold. How much easier should those not so far gone be cured? They may take Dr. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Seaweed Tonic, and Mandrake Pills, and follow the directions closely, and keep getting better and worse, and finally die, for one simple reason—they keep taking little colds, enough to keep the lungs inflamed. When a person has a diseased lung, they should stay in the house as much, and even more than one just recovering from a dangerous sickness; yet it is thought by most physicians best for consumptive patients to go out and get the fresh air—but do they ever cure real consumption by this course?

Dr. Schenck's medicines cleanse the stomach and liver, equalize the circulation of the blood, create an appetite, and the food is made to digest and made into good blood, and that is all they do. Nature will do the rest. Dr. J. H. Schenck will be at his principal office, No. 15 North 6th-st., corner of Commerce, Philadelphia, every Saturday, from 9 A. M. until 4 P. M.; No. 39 Bond-st., New-York, every Tuesday, from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.; No. 38 Summer-st., Boston, every Wednesday, from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.; and every other Friday at No. 108 Baltimore-st., Baltimore, Md. All advice free, but for a thorough examination with his respirometer he charges $3.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic, each $1 50 per bottle, or $7 50 per half-dozen. Mandrake Pills 25 cents per box.

For sale by all Druggists and Dealers.

N. B.—A full supply of Dr. SCHENCK'S MEDICINES can be obtained at all times at his Rooms, No. 32 Bond-st., New-York, and the Doctor may be seen there professionally every TUESDAY, from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

NOTICES FROM THE ENGLISH PRESS.

"The tale has the remarkable attraction of being as true to nature as truth itself, and as strange and exciting as the wildest fiction. We pay the highest compliment we can well put into words, when we say that the earlier portions of the work strongly remind us of 'Tremaine' and 'De Vere.'"—London Court Journal.

THE TOILERS OF THE SEA.
A Novel.
BY VICTOR HUGO,
Author of "Les Miserables."
8vo, Paper, 75 Cents.

The Athenæum says: "As an idyl of homely love and simple heroism we know nothing save parts of 'Enoch Arden,' that can compare in touching sweetness with the closing scenes of 'Les Travailleurs de la Mer.'"

Le Temps says of this work: "Those who would know with what charm, magnificence, and terror the genius of the poet has invested his ocean pictures, must consult the volume itself. The romance contains minute descriptions of local manners and superstitions, which give an additional grace to the grand scenes which are unfolded in the work."

The Debats says: "'Travailleurs de la Mer,' a poem, history and legend—an elegy, an epopée, a war song, a great cry traversing the ocean, and which will traverse ages—such is M. Victor Hugo's new work."

NOTICE.—TO THE STOCKHOLDERS OF THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD, OF TEXAS.—In consequence of the late war, and all communication between the stockholders North having been cut off, it has become necessary to open communication and let them know the condition of the Company at this time. At a general convention of stockholders held at Louisville, Ky., on the 15th day of March, 1861, it was resolved that a subscription of $1 per share should be made by each stockholder on the number of shares held by him of the "reduced stock" for which subscription stock should be issued. This action was necessary to raise a sufficient fund to satisfy debts then existing against the company, and save it from sale and execution. The war breaking out shortly after, and all communication being cut off, a sufficient amount was not raised, consequently on the 3d of September, 1861, the road was sold. The purchaser generously proffered the road to those who had paid their funds in good faith. A new company was then organized, the Board of Directors of which passed a resolution allowing all stockholders who had stock, for which a valuable consideration had been given the company, should be reinstated in the new organization upon the following conditions, to wit: That upon paying the loan of 50c. per share under resolution passed at Louisville convention, March 25th, 1858, reducing their stock one-half, and a further payment of $1 per share on the number of shares on reduced stock, as directed under resolution of March 15th, 1861, (at Louisville convention of that date.) The action of the Board as above was ratified at the general meeting of stockholders held at New Orleans, on the 22d day of February; also at a meeting held in Louisville, Ky., on the 23d day of March, 1866.

Therefore, notice is hereby given to all stockholders to come forward and comply with the above resolution, one-half of which may be paid by the 15th day of April, 1866. The one-half being paid will be considered as an earnest of the intention to pay the other half, which must be paid in full by the 1st day of June, 1866, and notice is hereby given that all delinquents after that date will be forever cut off from any connection with the company. Under the State laws of Texas no Railroad Company shall issue stock certificates of less than $100 per share of par value, consequently the stock of this Company will be re-issued to conform to that law.

H. Burkhardt, of Louisville, Ky., is the authorized Agent of the Company to receive all moneys and stock. Stock will be issued for all moneys paid on the above calls. Persons sending money must accompany it with the certificates of stock (and if calls have been paid the receipts must also be sent), which will be forwarded for re-issue.
JOHN M. WASKOM,
President S. P. R. R. Co.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE undersigned has been appointed by the Supreme Court receiver of the estate funds and effects of the Morris Fire and Inland Insurance Company, pursuant to the provisions of the Revised Statutes of the State of New-York, entitled "Of proceedings against corporations in equity." All persons indebted to said Company are required to render an account of all debts and sums of money owing by them respectively, and to pay the same to the said receiver, at the office of the receiver, No. 31 Pine-st., in the City of New-York, by the 31st day of May, 1866. All persons having in their possession any property or effects of the said Company, are required to deliver the same to the said receiver, by the same day above mentioned. All the creditors of such Company are required to deliver their respective accounts and demands to the said receiver by the said 31st day of May, 1866. And all persons holding any open or subsisting contract of the said Morris Fire and Inland Insurance Company, are required to present the same in writing, and in detail, to such receiver, at his office, No. 31 Pine-st., in the City of New-York, on the said 31st day of May, 1866.

Dated NEW-YORK, April 9, 1866.

PERPETUAL POLICIES.

METROPOLITAN INSURANCE COMPANY,
NOS. 108 AND 110 BROADWAY, NEW-YORK.

CASH CAPITAL	$1,000,000 00
ASSETS JAN. 1, 1866	$1,845,984 98

The Metropolitan Insurance Company, of New-York, being convinced of the great convenience and safety of the system of deposit insurance, so long and successfully practiced in Europe, and in some of the other States of the Union, has decided to adopt the same in its own business, whenever it may be desired by the party seeking insurance.

This mode of insurance will be confined to dwelling houses exclusively, and will be conducted on the following plan:

The assured is required, on the issuing of the policy, to deposit with the Company such sum as may be agreed on, not to exceed the aggregate of ten annual premiums, which remains as a permanent deposit so long as the property stands, and the party desires to continue the insurance. If the property be sold, it is provided that the insurance shall still hold good for sixty days longer, in order to give time to make the necessary change in the policy.

Whenever the assured shall elect to terminate the insurance, or the same shall be terminated by sale as above mentioned, the assured will be entitled to receive back the whole sum deposited, less five per cent, which, with the interest, constitutes the premium reserved by the Company.

The Company reserves to itself, as heretofore, the right to cancel any risk, on due notice, in which case the whole deposit, without any deduction, will be returned to the assured. This right can be waived by the Company when parties going abroad desire to be secure against change.

An example of the practical working of this system is here presented:

Mr. Smith has a house which he desires to insure for $5,000; the annual premium on that sum is $12 50, ten years' premium is $125; this sum, deposited with the Company, makes the insurance perpetual, without further payment of any kind.

When the property is sold, or the assured desires to abandon the insurance, he applies to the Company, and receives back $118 75 of the $125. If the Company elects to cancel, he receives his whole $125, and the bargain is at an end.

The advantage of this method of insuring, in the case of dwellings, where permanent security is especially desirable, rendering unnecessary the constant watchfulness now required, in order to prevent a policy from lapsing, at an unlucky moment, cannot fail to be perceived and appreciated here, even more than elsewhere. The immense amount of dwelling property in this City, forming, in many cases, the bulk of great estates, must find this system especially valuable for its permanency and safety.

When insurance must be renewed from year to year the best memories may sometimes fail, and the property on which families depend for their sole support may disappear in an hour—once made, insurance by deposit need never to be renewed again, except where circumstances call for its discontinuance.

It keeps alive without watching. Insurance by this method is obviously cheaper as well as more secure. Thus, $5,000 costs say $12 50 per annum, on a first-class dwelling; while on $125 (the amount to be deposited) the interest at 7 per cent. is but $8 75. If the risk runs in this way ten years, the Company gets $8 75 per annum for insuring $5,000, and at the end $6 25 more, being 5 per cent. retained when the deposit is reclaimed—making the average annual premium $9 37.

We have no doubt that as fast as this simple and convenient system becomes understood it will so fully commend itself to all insurers of dwellings that few will think of protecting them on any other plan.

Full explanations of the working of this plan, under every variety of circumstances, will be furnished on application to the Company.

1,000 cases prime goods. A. S. RICHARDS & CO. will sell at auction on WEDNESDAY, April 11, at 10½ o'clock, at store No. 44 Cortlandt-st., a full assortment of Boots and Shoes, direct from the manufactory.

GREAT AUCTION SALE OF RIVER LANDS, UNEQUALED FOR TIMBER, LOCATION AND MILLING PURPOSES. ALSO OF STILLS, MULES, WAGONS, TOOLS, HOUSEHOLD AND KITCHEN FURNITURE, &c.

THE LANDS.

Under and by virtue of a decree of the Chancery Court for the First District for the Southern Chancery Division of the State of Alabama, in the case of Mrs. E. A. ELLISON, Executrix, vs. WILLIAM L. KENNEDY, surviving partner, for settlement, I shall cause to be sold at auction to the highest bidders, before the United States Custom-house in the City of Mobile, on MONDAY, the 30th day of April next, at 12 o'clock M., all the following-described lands, lying in the fork formed by the two branches of Fish River, in Baldwin County, Alabama, namely: 400 acres of Section 8, 160 acres of Section 10, Section 18, Section 17, 480 acres of Section 15, Section 14, Section 19, (being 37 Spanish claim,) Section 20, Section 21, Section 22, Section 23, 318 acres of Section 30, 600 acres of Section 29, 500 acres of Section 28, 220 acres of Section 31, 183 acres of Section 32, 175 acres of Section 33, Township 7 South, Range 3 East, and 109 55-100 acres in Township 6 South, Range 2 East, of the lands subjected to sale at St. Stephens, amounting to over 3,000 acres.

These lands are covered with the best timber for wood, lumber and tar, and furnish elegant grazing for stock, and the adjoining waters abound in fish and oysters, and lie between and extend to both the branches of Fish River. These branches are from three to four miles apart only, and both are navigable, so that vessels may be loaded from the banks. There are many excellent mill sites on both branches, to which timber may be directly floated. These lands are distant by water about 35 miles from Mobile, and about 170 or 180 from the great breadstuffs and provision market of New-Orleans. The navigation to both places is by inland, and is safe and to all places convenient. The location is perfectly healthy and convenient, and the water pure and good. It is about 7 miles by land from Point Clear, the most desirable watering-place on the coast, and persons can go from these lands in the morning to Mobile, attend to their business, and return thence by 8 o'clock P. M. the same evening. The lands will be sold in lots to suit purchasers. Terms, one-third cash, one-third in one, and the remaining one-third in two years, with notes for all but the cash payment, bearing interest from date and secured by mortgage on the lands.

PERSONAL PROPERTY.

Under and by virtue of the same powers, I will cause to be sold at auction, to the highest bidder, on MONDAY, the 16th day of April next, commencing at 12 o'clock M., at the dwelling-house on the turpentine-orchard of Kennedy & Ellison, on Fish River, Baldwin County, Ala., the following personal property, namely:

Two 35-barrel turpentine stills, complete and in good order.

Two 20-barrel turpentine stills, complete and in good order.

Seven mules.

A lot of household and kitchen furniture.

A lot of turpentine, blacksmith's and carpenter's tools.

One cow and calf, 1 buggy, 3 wagons, and various other articles.

Terms of sale for personal property, cash.
STEPHEN DOWTY,
Receiver under appointment in Chancery.

PROPOSALS

PROPOSALS FOR NORTH RIVER FLAGGING.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, OFFICE OF SUPERVISING ARCHITECT, March 27, 1866.

PROPOSALS WILL BE RECEIVED at this office until 12 o'clock M. April 13, 1866, for furnishing North River Flagging for the sidewalks in front of the West wing of the Treasury Building, to be delivered at the work and of the following dimensions and numbers, viz.:

176 stones, 5 ft. 8 in.x3 ft., not less than 3 in. thick.
69 stones, 5 ft. 4 in.x3 ft., not less than 3 in. thick.
178 stones, 3 ft.x3 ft., not less than 3 in. thick.

The surface of the flags must be perfectly out of wind, and the tooling run with the length of the same—machine tooling preferred. As the edges will be cut after delivery, the plates must be furnished with sufficient margin to work perfectly true to the above dimensions, and all will be rejected which are different in this respect. The bids to be per superficial foot, measured when laid, and to include all costs of delivery, and also to specify the time in which it can be delivered.

Payments will be made upon delivery with a reservation of 10 per cent until the whole of the above is delivered.

The Department reserves the right to reject any or all bids, if it be deemed for the interest of the Government to do so, and no bid will be considered that does not conform to the requirements of this advertisement.

Proposals to be indorsed "Proposals for Flagging," and addressed to A. B. MULLETT, Acting Supervising Architect, Treasury Department, Washington, D. C.

A. B. MULLETT, Acting Supervising Architect.

MEDICAL.

GARDINER'S RHEUMATIC COMPOUND cures rheumatism, cures neuralgia, cures salt rheum, cures all blood complaints, cures a morbid liver, and regulates the whole system.

TO MARRIED AND SINGLE LADIES. M. DESOMEAUX' PORTUGUESE FEMALE MONTHLY PILLS.—Every lady uses them. In all cases of stoppage or irregularity, from whatever cause, they are safe, healthy and certain, as well as pleasant, being sugar-coated. They are scientifically prepared of costly and rare extracts. The only reliable specific for ladies. They cannot fail in any case. Price $3 and $5 a box. Dr. A. M. MAURICEAU, Professor of Midwifery, Sole Agent and proprietor for upward of twenty years, Office No. 129 Liberty-st., or sent by mail in letter envelope.

THOUSANDS ARE TIMELY SAVED BY Dr. KENNEDY'S skillful and improved treatment.—Private diseases cured in the shortest possible time by Dr. KENNEDY & CO., No. 195 Elm-st., New-York, without the use of mercury, loss of time or change of diet. Dr. KENNEDY, from the hospitals of London, Paris and Edinburgh, is the discoverer of the only certain and reliable remedies for diseases of a private character. In 25 years' practice he has cured more cases of Secret Diseases and Wrong Treatment than all others combined. I can and will cure you in less time and at less expense than any other can or will, and those who have been robbed of their money and health, call; it will take but little money and time to restore you. If you have been unfortunate, call at once. By his special experience in this much neglected branch of medical science, he is enabled to guarantee a cure in the most complicated cases. Recent cases of Gonorrhœa or Syphilis cured in a few days, without change of diet or hindrance from business. Secondary Syphilis—the last vestige eradicated without the use of Mercury. Involuntary emissions stopped in a short time. Sufferers from impotency, or loss of sexual power, restored to full vigor in a few weeks, permanently and speedily cured by a new treatment. Persons at a distance failing to receive prompt treatment elsewhere, may get a permanent cure effected by writing a full diagnosis of their case, addressed to Dr. KENNEDY, No. 195 Elm-st. Call, send or write.

ADVICE TO MARRIED LADIES.—MADAME RESTELL, Professor of Midwifery, having over thirty years' successful practice in this city, guarantees a safe and immediate removal of all special irregularities and obstructions in females, with or without medicine, at one interview, or by mail. Can be consulted with the utmost confidence at No. 162 Chambers-st. Her infallible French Female Pills, No. 1, price $1, or No. 2, which are four degrees stronger than No. 1, and can never fail, are safe and healthy, price $5, can be sent by mail. Also sold at the druggist's, No. 162 Greenwich-st., near Liberty-st. Madame RESTELL deems it her duty to caution ladies against imitators, who not only deprive them of their means, but their health.

MANHOOD AND THE VIGOR OF YOUTH regained in three days by Dr. POWERS' ESSENCE OF LIFE. This wonderful agent restores manhood to the most shattered constitutions, radically curing Seminal Weakness, Sexual Debility, and Impediments to Marriage generally; Nervousness, Mental and Physical Incapacity, resulting from self-abuse, &c. The time required to cure the most inveterate case is one week. Failure is impossible. This life-restoring remedy should be taken by all about to marry, as its effects are permanent. Young man, are you subject to that soul and body destroying disease, secret habits? Dr. POWERS' Invigorating Essence is a never-failing cure. Sold by WALTER POWERS, M. D., No. 195 Elm-st., New-York.

AFFLICTED RESTORED—IGNORANCE EXPOSED—FALLACIES UNMASKED.—Highly important to both sexes, married or single, in health or disease. Dr. Larmont's Paris, London and New-York MEDICAL ADVISER AND MARRIAGE GUIDE. New edition; 400 pages. Nearly 100 anatomical illustrations upon debility, affections of the bladder and kidneys, sexual diseases. European hospital practice, the author's unequaled Paris and London treatment, &c. Sold by E. WARNER, No. 1 Vesey-st., $1 50, closely sealed, or consult the doctor, No. 173 Broadway, New-York, from 12 A. M. to 6 P. M.

"We concur with other papers in recommending Dr. LARMONT and his work."—Courrier des Etats Unis, German die Reform, Staats Zeitung, Atlas, Medical Review, &c.

A PHYSIOLOGICAL VIEW OF MARRIAGE—Containing nearly 300 pages and 150 fine plates and engravings of the anatomy of the sexual organs, in a state of health and disease, with a treatise on self-abuse, its deplorable consequences upon the mind and body, with the author's plan of treatment—the only rational and successful mode of cure, as shown by the report of cases treated. A truthful adviser of the married and those contemplating marriage, who entertain doubts of their physical condition. Sent, free of postage, to any address on receipt of 25 cents, in specie or postage stamps. Address Dr. LA CROIX, No. 31 Maiden-lane, Albany, N. Y.

DR. POWERS' PERIODICAL DROPS are designed for both married and single ladies, and are the very best thing known for the purpose, as they will bring on the monthly sickness in case of obstruction from any cause, and after all other remedies of the kind have been tried in vain. Expressly for obstinate cases. Warranted as represented in every respect, or the price will be refunded. Beware of imitations! Purchase directly of Dr. POWERS, No. 195 Elm-st., New-York.

THE MARRIED WOMAN'S PRIVATE MEDICAL COMPANION, by Dr. A. M. MAURICEAU, Professor of Diseases of Women, strictly intended for those whose health or circumstances forbid a too rapid increase of family. Price $1. Sold at his office No. 129 Liberty-st., New-York; or can be sent by mail, free of postage, to any part of the United States and Canada, by inclosing $1, and addressing Box No. 1,224 New-York City.

LADIES WHO NEED A CONFIDENTIAL medical adviser should consult Dr. HARRISON. One interview is sufficient. His Female Monthly Regulator, which will have the desired effect in a few hours, sent to order everywhere. Price $5. Office No. 52 6th-av.

PRIVATE AND SKIN DISEASES, SCROFULA and eruptions, male and female, treated by Dr. FULLER, at his office, No. 45 Sullivan-st. (Preventives always on hand.)

DR. HUNTER'S BOTANIC CORDIAL restores the vigor of youth in four days. Gives health, strength and vigor to the most shattered system. $5 a bottle No. 3 Division-st., New-York. the only place.

DR. KING, NO. 620 BROADWAY, BETWEEN Houston and Bleecker sts., cures private cases in 48 hours. Separate consulting-rooms for ladies and gentlemen. Cure warranted.

MANY THOUSANDS ARE RUINED BEYOND REDEMPTION in this life by not calling on Dr. HUNTER sooner or later. He can cure the worst cases of secret disease in a shorter time than any other physician, or no pay taken. Skeptics and doubters will please call and read hundreds of reliable certificates of cures made within the last thirty years of almost hopeless cases, that had had the benefit of dozens of our most eminent physicians and surgeons. Dr. Hunter is in constant attendance from 8 in the morning till 9 at night, at his old office, No. 3 Division-st., New-York City, since 1834. Charges moderate, and a cure guaranteed. Separate rooms, so that the patient sees no one but the Doctor himself. His wonderful medical discovery, DR. HUNTER'S RED DROP, cures private diseases when regular treatment and all other remedies fail; cures without dieting or restriction in the habits of the patient; cures without the disgusting and sickening effects of all other remedies, cures in new cases in less than six hours; cures without the dreadful consequent effects of mercury, and possesses the peculiarly valuable property of annihilating the rank and poisonous taint that the blood is sure to absorb unless his remedy is used. This is what he claims for it, and what no other will accomplish. $2 per vial. Book, 50 pages, gratis, on nervous debility, causes of impotency, marasmus, &c.

STOVES, RANGES, &C.

THE IMPERIAL FRENCH COOKING RANGE, manufactured by Messrs. E. MONEUSE & DUPARQUET, Nos. 28 and 30 Greene-st., New-York, are the best and most improved ever manufactured either in this country or in Europe. Their superiority consists in an economy in fuel of 25 or 30 per cent. over any other range, even the so-called European Ranges, recently introduced in the market, and in affording greater accommodations and every kind of comfort to the cook; they also manufacture all cooking utensils and tin them over, as shown by the following references:

Mr. Martinez, Maison Dorée.
Mr. Cranston, New-York Hotel.
Mr. S. Leland, Metropolitan Hotel.

CHORAL ORGANS.

It is admitted by all MUSICIANS who have examined the CHORAL ORGANS, that they combine more desirable qualities than any reed instrument ever before made. By a combination of arrangements, peculiar to the CHORAL ORGAN alone, the tone EXCELS in fullness, purity, and richness; and in the general mechanical arrangements of the instrument, it surpasses all others of its class. The patent Graduated Swell is controlled entirely by the feet, while blowing, requiring no change of position of hands or feet, thereby enabling the performer to produce all those beautiful effects for which the Organ is so eminently adapted. This SWELL is not a LOUD PEDAL only, but, as its name indicates, a SWELL, by which you glide from the PIANISSIMO to the FORTISSIMO at will, or instantly change from one to the other. This is peculiar to the CHORAL ORGAN. The voicing of the Reeds is done with the greatest care, in order to free them from the HARSHNESS often heard in reed instruments; and no one who listens to the CHORAL ORGAN but is attracted by the melodious sweetness of its tones. None should purchase an instrument of this class without first inspecting the CHORAL ORGAN.

THE BRADBURY PIANO-FORTE.

Is now pronounced "THE BEST" by our first Artists, by the American Institute of New-York, and by many State Fairs.

Besides these, THIRTY of the most eminent musicians and pianists of the country have testified to the same.

The points of excellence cover the ENTIRE REQUIREMENTS of a perfect Piano.

Call or send for circulars with illustrations to WM. B. BRADBURY, No. 427 Broome-st., N. Y.

STEINWAY & SONS' GRAND, SQUARE AND UPRIGHT PIANOFORTES

Have taken thirty-two First Premiums Gold and Silver Medals, at the principal fairs held in this country within the last ten years, and in addition thereto they were awarded a First Prize Medal at the Great International Exhibition in London, 1862, in competition with 269 Pianos from all parts of the world.

That the great superiority of these instruments is now universally conceded is abundantly proven by the fact that Messrs. Steinway's "scales, improvements and peculiarities of construction" have been copied by the great majority of the manufacturers of both hemispheres (as closely as could be done without infringement of patent rights) and that their instruments are used by the most eminent pianists of Europe and America, who prefer them for their own public and private use, whenever accessible.

STEINWAY & SONS direct special attention to their PATENT AGRAFFE ARRANGEMENT, which, having been practically tested in all their Grand and highest priced Square Pianos, and admitted to be one of the greatest improvements of modern times, will hereafter be introduced in every piano manufactured by them without increase of cost to the purchaser, in order that all their patrons may reap its benefit.

STEINWAY & SONS' PIANOS are the only American instruments exported to Europe in large numbers, and used in European concert rooms.

EUROPEAN NEWS.

if such a Parliament were in favor of freedom and of an honest representation of the people. But notwithstanding such a Parliament, this bill will pass if Birmingham and other towns will do their duty.

There is opposed to it the Tory party, of whose blindness and folly we have abundant proofs in all its history. We have no reason now to expect from it a wiser course, and we have a small section of men who do not accept the name of Tory, but zealously do its work.

These combine to form a conspiracy on which all the hopes of Mr. DISRAELI and the Opposition are based. I think a more dirty conspiracy has not been seen in the House of Commons during many generations. It is directed against this bill, and not less against Lord RUSSELL, by whom the liberal and popular policy of the Government has been determined.

What should be done, and what must be done under these circumstances? You know what your fathers did thirty-four years ago, and you know the result. The men who in every speech they utter insult the workingmen, describing them as a multitude given up to ignorance and vice, will be the first to yield when the popular will is loudly and resolutely expressed. If Parliament-street, from Charing-cross to the venerable Abbey, were filled with men seeking a Reform Bill, as it was two years ago with men come to do honor to an illustrious Italian, these slanderers of their countrymen would learn to be civil, if they did not learn to love freedom.

This bill appeals to the middle and working classes alike. It is a measure of enfranchisement to both of them, and they should heartily unite in an effort to make it a law. That which the Tories and the "dirty conspiracy" oppose cannot but deserve the support of every liberal man in the kingdom.

If the population of the Birmingham District would set apart a day, not for "humiliation," but for a firm assertion of their rights, in great meetings or in one vast gathering, they might sustain this Franchise Bill, and beat down, as by one blow, the power that threatens to bolt the door of Parliament against the people.

I hope we shall see in all the towns of Great Britain during the coming fortnight a great support of the Government and the Bill. If the vote of want of confidence is carried against the Government there will be a change of Ministers or a dissolution of Parliament. If the towns do their duty the Government will be safe, because the bill will be safe, and the suffrage once established on a more rational basis, the country can then turn its attention to the arrangement and distribution of seats, which is just as needful as a wider suffrage to give us a fair representation of the nation.

Great meetings and great petitions will be not only useful, but effectual. I am very truly yours,

JOHN BRIGHT.

The Fenians.

The Fenian invasion of Canada, and the consequences to which it may lead, are referred to, and the Times expresses the hope that the United States will compensate England for the passive attitude she has hitherto assumed on the Fenian question.

The Post says there are indications that many of the malcontents will think better of their threatened opposition to the Government on the Reform Bill.

Notice has been given by Mr. BRYAN that he will ask the attention of the Government to the state of the Irish beach.

A telegram from Dublin of Monday says: "To-day the police tound buried under the floor of a house in Temple Road, two boxes of rifles furnished with bayonets. J. BROPHY, brother of BROPHY, the Fenian convict, and eleven other men have been arrested.

Shipwreck on the Coast of Devon.

The Nova Scotia and New-Brunswick line of steam and sailing packets liner Spirit of the Ocean, from London on Monday last for Halifax, was wrecked on Friday last at a wild spot on the coast of Devon. She drifted on a rock and went to pieces almost immediately. Out of 20 passengers and a crew of 22, the only survivors are the mate and 3 seamen.

The Asia arrived at Crookhaven on March 26.

The Ellen Bernard, from New-York, arrived at Liverpool March 26.

CONTINENTAL NEWS.

Austria and Prussia.

BERLIN, Tuesday, March 27.

The Zeitsrische Correspondenz to-day publishes an article representing the present state of the Austro-Prussian relations as serious. It considers the crisis far from diminishing, but on the contrary becoming more dangerous. The article points out that as soon as Austria had armed, her financial position would compel her to hasten the attack, a circumstance which the Prussian Government is taking into serious consideration.

The Berlin correspondence of the Times says Prussia has not mobilized, or dispatched in the direction of the frontier, a single regiment. Some few reserves have been called in, but it can positively be asserted that they do not come up to the number which in the most peaceful times has been collected on the appearance of some distant danger in the diplomatical horizon. That the mobilization of the entire army is contemplated, and even prepared to be carried out at a moment's notice, does not admit of a doubt. There is no foundation in the rumored alliance between Italy and Prussia. The Italian Government desires to observe the strictest neutrality in any conflict which may occur between Prussia and Austria.

A telegram from Vienna, of March 25, says: "The relations between Austria and Prussia remain unchanged. Some Vienna papers contain reassuring statements, others continue to publish rumors of a warlike nature, and assert that Prussia will shortly send an ultimatum to the Austrian Government. According to the Presse, Prussian troops have been pushed forward to the Silesian fronier, where preparations are being made for establishing the headquarters of Prince FREDERICK CHARLES. The Emperor addressed a letter to the King of Prussia congratulating His Majesty on the occasion of his birthday, but containing no political allusion."

It is rumored that Prussia has offered Austria fifty millions of thalers if the latter will cede her rights over the Duchies.

High-handed Movements in Bolivia—Miscellaneous.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PANAMA, Sunday, April 1, 1866.

We have dates from Callao and Lima to the 22d March. The only item of importance is a report that reached Callao, just before the sailing of the steamer, that the Chilian steamer Paquete de Maule had been attacked by the Spaniards, and after a severe engagement was captured, with 250 soldiers on board. Nothing positive is known of the late movements of the Spanish squadron, but the Blanca and iron-clad Numancia are reported as last seen in the Archipelago of Chiloe. A Valparaiso letter says:

"The various men-of-war, of all nations now lying in Valparaiso Bay are comprised in the following list: North America—The Monitor Monadnock, and the steamers Vanderbilt, Powhatan, Tuscarora, Mohonga and Adela. English—The frigates Sutlej and Leander, and the gunboat Nereus. French—The corvette Venus and gunboat Egerie. Spanish—The frigates Villa de Madrid, Resolucion and Berenguela, the corvette Vencedora, and the transports Marquez de la Victoria and Matias Cousino. Swedish—The steamer Gefle. Russian—The gunboat Aleout. The United States Monitor Monadnock has caused quite an excitement in Valparaiso. Numberless boats conveying extraordinary numbers of persons visit this huge monster every succeeding Sunday. This immense Colossus of the seas, with her enormous cannons carrying 500-pounders and her two bomb-proof revolving turrets, has overwhelmed with astonishment the good people of Valparaiso."

Revolution in Panama—Bogus Canal and Railroad Companies—The Barbacoas Gold Mines—The Mines a Failure—All the Miners Anxious to Return—Over One Hundred already Returned to Panama—Naval Matters.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PANAMA, Sunday, April 1, 1866.

One of those little fusses or flurries, so frequent in these latitudes, and which are dignified here by the name of revolution, occurred in Panama on the night of the 24th of March. It will be recollected by those interested in Panama matters, that a little over a year ago, on the 9th of March, 1865, a battalion of national troops, sent here to protect the railroad transit, were induced to revolt by a judicious distribution of a little money, and promise of red shirts and better grub. A volley or two into the doors and windows of the Government-house set the legitimate President of the State and his Secretaries a-flying, and it was found next day that we were living under a new régime, composed of the present President, Señor JIL COLHNJE, an officer of the revolted troops, a Secretary of State, and still another as commander of the battalion—which battalion took shelter from the National under the wings of the State Government. The officers of this battalion having been bought out once, it was naturally considered quite practicable to buy them out again—the only question seeming to be one of the capacity of the pockets of the adverse parties—here denominated "Liberal" and "Conservative," respectively. Accordingly, about six months since the "Liberals" struck a bargain with those who had betrayed them and their Government, to betray their opponents. But a quarrel having taken place as to the proper distribution of the "thirty pieces of silver," the Judas of the concern blew the whole matter to the President or Governor, upon which the latter promptly exiled the men from whom he derived his power, and placed others in their shoes. Once or twice since, attempts have been made to corrupt the battalion, but the watchfulness of the President and his prompt arrest and expulsion or imprisonment of the conspirators prevented a catastrophe.

Well knowing that without the aid of this battalion, who possessed all the arms and war material in Panama, it would be madness to attempt a counter revolution, the people were much surprised at about 11 o'clock on the night of the 24th, by the appearance of a couple of hundred of negroes in the street leading to the principal cuartel, armed with nothing but machetes, or long rough iron swords. The negroes proceeded straight to the barrack, which they found open and unguarded, and where there was plenty of arms. As they entered the enclosure, a few officers of the battalion appeared, and some commenced helping them with arms, while others served out cartridges to them; or, at any rate, allowed them to take the arms and cartridges that were lying about. The negroes commenced to load the pieces, when lo! it was found the cartridges were all too large for the guns! While they were endeavoring to hammer into a few of the pieces the big balls, they found themselves suddenly surrounded by a body of troops. One or two of the negroes, who saw then the state of things, fired on the troops with a pistol, or musket, into which he had crowded a ball, and then the troops fired a volley into the almost unarmed negroes, killing eight of them, according to the official report, and wounding many others. At this moment, Gen. OLARTE, commander of the troops, and, of course, candidate for Governor, appeared in the rear of the flying negroes with 125 men, whom he had for some time encamped outside the city, and made prisoners of their chief, Gen. LEVEL DE GODA, and 106 men, who are now held in durance. The day after, Señor VICTOR PLISE, a man of wealth an uneasy sort of gentleman, was arrested; and Dr. MANUEL MORRO, Secretary of State under the previous Government, made his escape—and thus ended the third attempt at revolution we have had within a year.

By the official reports of Gen. OLARTE and the Government, it appears that both the civil and military authorities knew all about the contemplated revolution, even from its earliest initiation. Indeed, Col. VILLAREAL and Major HERNANDEZ, of the battalion, were the confidants of the leader—promised him their aid, and planned with him the whole affair—that is to say, up to the time when the negroes entered the barracks, and the officers threw off the mask. The official documents form a curious exposé, and on reading them, one would become almost convinced, did he not know the high standing of the present and prospective President of this State, that the whole thing was initiated for their own especial benefit.

Gen. LEVEL DE GODA is a Venezuelean, but a General of Columbia, and served with distinction under Gen. MOSQUERA in the revolution of 1862 against President OSPINA. The official paper charges that his object in coming here to get up a revolution was to make himself President of Panama, so that from this point he might operate more successfully in furnishing arms from New-York via the Isthmus, to the disaffected against the present Government of Venezuela, which charge I believe to be pretty near the truth. At any rate, so far as Mr. LEVEL DE GODA is concerned, if he suffers only a short imprisonment for coming into a strange country to disturb its peace for selfish purposes of his own, he will scarcely meet with the degree of punishment he deserves. When you reflect upon the tremendous evils caused to these South American States by constant revolutions, and know that the interests of the people are nine times out of ten injured by them, politically, pecuniarily and morally, you will come to my opinion, that the best thing to do with a revolutionist, if you catch him in a failure, is to hang him at once.

BOGUS CANAL AND RAILROAD COMPANIES.

To one who has been familiar for many years with the modus operandi of the various concerns or "companies" who have "surveyed" this Isthmus and the Isthmus of Nicaragua for canals and railroads, the fact that Mr. BEDFORD PIM's Nicaragua railroad scheme is attracting attention in England and exciting the fears of our own Congressmen at Washington, appears supremely ridiculous. Look at it. Capt. PIM, in his lectures in England, says his plan is to make a railroad 225 miles in length, from a point he calls Gorgon Bay, on the Atlantic, to Realejo, on the Pacific. For the present, he says, he will use 75 miles of lakes instead of railroads, thus shortening the latter to 150 miles. He estimates that he can build this 150 miles for £2,500,000, or $12,500,000. Now, in the first place, a railroad between the two points, as has been clearly demonstrated, cannot be compressed within a shorter length than 290 miles. The Panama Railroad, 47 miles long, cost $8,000,000. A railroad in Nicaragua cannot be made any cheaper than it can be in Panama. So that had Mr. PIM only 150 miles of road to build, his expense in making it would be say $26,000,000. His whole road—say just about six times the length of the Panama Road—would thus cost him $48,000,000.

It is the fashion with these speculative gentlemen, who have a "big thing" in Central or South America, out of which to make a bogus stock for Wall-street, Threadneedle-street or the Bourse, to estimate that you can obtain labor in those countries for about a dime or a dime and a half a day. And you can—when you don't want it. When you do, and when you want enough to build a railroad, it will cost you three dollars. And then, in the Tropics, for your three dollars you will get about five hours' work. Look at the Panama Road. The first estimate to make it was $3,500,000. It cost $8,000,000. It took, with all the labor that could be gotten from the United States, from Ireland direct, from China, from the West Indies, from Carthagena and on and about the Isthmus, six years to get it in condition to run a train over in six hours. To have made the road solid, and to have put it in as good running order as it is now, would have occupied the whole force two years more. Will anybody who knows Nicaragua say that Mr. PIM could finish his road in less than twenty years? Would any portion of it pay the running expenses while the work was in progress? No. Then it follows that the interest on the investment would be accruing for twenty years, making quite a respectable addition to the building expenses.

Suppose that in twenty years Mr. PIM should get his road built? What is he going to do with it? Long before that time we shall have a direct railroad from the Missouri to the Pacific—a road that will take all the travel to the North Pacific coast, and a good deal of light merchandise. Long before that the North Pacific British possessions will be ours, and Australia will have set up for herself. So it will get no "California passengers." The Panama Railroad of course will supply the whole South Pacific and a good portion of the very small Central American trade, so that Mr. PIM will have left only the Nicaragua internal trade, which don't now and never will require only a few hundred mules, and a portion, amounting to about as much more, for the two States, Salvador and Guatemala, north of him. In fact, a railroad across Nicaragua, in ten or twenty years from now, wouldn't take in money enough daily to pay for the whisky consumed by Mr. PIM's operatives.

THE BARBACOAS GOLD MINES.

The Panama Railroad Company's steam freight boat Parkersburg, returned from her trip to Tumaco on the 24th of March, having landed there 160 Californians for the Barbacoas gold diggings. About 25 of the 185 she took down returned in her, they either finding themselves short of means to proceed up the river or having become discouraged at the prospect of making money in the mines. The Panama Star and Herald sent a special correspondent to Barbacoas, whose first letter is not very encouraging to gold seekers. He says that "only four mines are in active operation. The working of the mines entails a considerable outlay, and can only be successfully carried out under considerable difficulties. The diggings are all in very steep banks and must be worked horizontally, for which purpose the hydraulic process is the only profitable one. All the country round Barbacoas is private property, and although the washing of gold out of the sand of the shores is open to all, the river is seldom low enough to allow that operation. An experienced miner also has told me that the bedrock is much below the level of the river, and therefore the water has to be baled out by women, with a good deal of trouble and expense, as there is not fall enough for it to flow out of the sluices. It seems to be perfectly true that the country higher up the river Telembi, is not only richer in gold, but that there is a large back land of fertile and healthy mountains; but as yet I have not been able to gather any information from the natives which I would implicitly believe; and the Americans who had started from Barbacoas for the head of the river, had not yet returned."

The correspondent says that a large portion of the miners who were the first to start for Barbacoas are now lying there sick; that there are no accommodations of any kind for travelers at Tumaco; that the possibilities of going to work at Barbacoas immediately on arriving there, on individual account, and doing well, are very few; that it costs a good deal to open large mines; and until these are opened, there will be little chance for miners' earning day-wages.

A Mr. O'CONNELL, who had been some months at the mines, returned to Panama in the Parkersburgh, and is going to the United States to purchase machinery and return there. He had with him about $20,000 in gold.

Consul LITTLE, who went to Barbacoas in the Parkersburgh, returned in her, and publishes a note in the Star and Herald, which undoubtedly gives very judicious advice, as follows:

CONSULATE OF THE UNITED STATES,
PANAMA, March 28, 1866.

GENTLEMEN: I fully approve the views expressed in your paper of the 27th inst., in regard to the emigration of poor miners to Barbacoas.

Great suffering already exists at the mines, and my advice to all miners in California and Nevada is: "Do not come unless you have at least $500 in your pockets above the expense of getting to the mines, as a capital to start with, or as a means of returning if sick or dissatisfied."

I am, very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
W. B. LITTLE, U. S. Consul.

Last evening, at 5 o'clock the British steamer Favorita arrived from Tumaco, bringing back 70 disappointed miners, many of them destitute. They report that much sickness and distress exists at Barbacoas and Tumaco, and that nearly all of the 700 Californians that have gone there are anxious to return. Ninety more arrived this morning in the Golden Age from San Francisco, but it is presumed that in view of the bad news not many of them will go to Tumaco.

MISCELLANEOUS.

There is no news of any importance from Bogota, the capital of the Republic. It is probable that Senor Rojas assumes the duties of the Presidency this day, Gen. Mosquera, the President-elect, not having yet arrived from England. He is now daily expected at Aspinwall in his war-steamer Columbia.

The United States double-ender Wateree left this port for Callao on the 28th ult., having on board Acting Rear Admiral PEARSON, who will transfer his flag to the Powhatan. The sloop of war St. Marys remains here, and the steamer James Adger is still at Aspinwall—very still. The Lima Comercio of the 14th March learns that "between the 20th and 22d of the month (March) the famous monitor Monadnock, accompanied by the Vanderbilt, will leave Valparaiso for Callao."

Mr. PARTRIDGE, United States Minister Resident to Salvador, goes to New-York to-day in this steamer.

LAW REPORTS.

UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT.

The Paramount Right of the Public to the use of the Highways—Private use of the Easement by the Fee Owner—Liability of Towns and Cities for the Non-repair of their Streets—Notice—Ordinary Care in Traversing the Highways—The Rhode Island Statute.

M. W. Gardner, City Treasurer, &c., plaintiff in error, vs. Anna R. Babcock, by her next friend, defendant in error.—This action was brought against the City of Providence, Rhode Island, to recover damages sustained by defendant in error by reason of the non-repair and unsafe condition of a sidewalk in one of the public highways of that city. The accident occurred on Commencement Day at Brown's University, and at the time a public procession was passing within a short distance (a few feet) of the place of the accident. The sidewalk complained of is in one of the principal streets in the centre of the city, and is much used by foot passengers, and within fifty or sixty feet of the great bridge over the Providence River, by which the population on either side pass. The plaintiff's injuries were occasioned by falling through a hole or opening extending into the sidewalk some fifteen and a half inches from the wall of a public warehouse, or store, and which was about four feet long. A cover was arranged over this hole, which was raised or shut down by means of hinges near the side of the building, and which, when raised, left an opening to the cellar of twelve to sixteen inches in width, (in a sidewalk six feet wide.) There were no steps down, but a clear space or fall of seven feet or more to the bottom of the pit. This cellar entrance had been used by the occupants of the store, as alleged by plaintiff in error, for more than forty years, for the purpose of taking in and out merchandise in the course of their business, and, at the time of the accident, had been open for such use but six or eight minutes. The cellar-way had been made for such use prior to the time when the highway was laid out over the land adjoining the building. No complaint had ever been made to the occupants of the store, or to the town or city authorities, of this mode of use, although the street is one of the great avenues for pedestrians, and the offices of the Mayor of the city and other city officials are on this street directly opposite the place of the accident.

On the trial, the plaintiff in error requested the Court to charge the Jury that the owners of the land adjoining the highway, and upon which the store was erected, had a right to use the land upon what was originally the sidewalk of a private way, and afterward a public highway, for such purposes, provided they covered the cellar or the entrance to it with a proper covering, so as not to render the walk unsafe for the public use, and that they had also a right to raise the coverings of the cellarway for the purpose of actual business, and to keep them open when necessarily engaged in such use; that it was not negligence on the part of the city to allow such an opening or cellar-way, for such purposes, so protected and used, to be continued. The Court refused so to charge, and upon the instructions given them, the Jury found for the defendant in error.

The case was then appealed, and is now brought to this Court from an affirmance at the Circuit of the District for Rhode Island, the plaintiff in error contending that it was error for the Court to refuse to charge as requested, for that to that effect have been the decisions of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts in analogous cases, under a statute containing the same requirements as that of Rhode Island. The Jury should also have been instructed that upon the evidence in the case the city had no notice that the highway was unsafe or inconvenient by the opening of the cellar-door and keeping it open for use during six or eight minutes; for when the cellar was covered, no defect in the highway existed. Such was its condition during all the night and for the greater part of the day. When open for use and in actual use, both the public and the land-owners enjoyed their rights, without conflict, and the aperture would not become a defect in the highway. If opened wrongfully, by a stranger, or if left open by the proprietor after the actual and proper use had ceased, then it would be a question of fact for the jury whether the City had notice of the stranger's trespass, or the proprietor's negligence, to make its inhabitants liable for their negligence on the special occasion. It is submitted that towns and cities are not liable for negligence in the repair of their highway in consequence of the lawful use by proper means, by the proprietors of adjoining lands of their rights in the soil.

The defendant in error responds that by the statute it is made the duty of towns and cities in Rhode Island to keep their highways safe and convenient for travelers at all seasons of the year and at all times of day and night. The statute also specially provides that "such towns shall also be liable to all persons who may in anywise suffer injury to their persons or property by reason of any such neglect," &c. This statutory liability applies to sidewalks, when they are within the limits of a public highway, for the use of foot passengers, with as much force as to other portions of the highway. Pedestrians upon the sidewalks of cities often have their attention fully occupied in threading their way through, and avoiding collision with the crowd, without being obliged to look out for pitfalls and stumblingblocks. And especially is this the case on holidays and public occasions like that when this accident occurred. On such occasions it is almost impossible for a person to see the place where his foot is to fall before it is put down, and the weight of his body thrown upon it. Travelers, in order to be entitled to recover damages of a town, are not bound to look far ahead in order to guard against obstructions which ought not to be suffered to exist. The people of a city, and travelers passing to and from railway stations and steamboat landings, and for other purposes, have occasion to move and drive rapidly, and while great care is required of them to avoid collision with others using the streets in like manner, they have the right to presume that the path before them is free from all other dangers—that it is "safe and convenient." Pedestrians have the right to converse with each other and accost those they meet, to look about and observe persons and things. Women and children have the right to look into shop windows and at each other's bonnets and dresses, and they may assume while so doing that the way is clear before them. Foot passengers are not bound to keep their eyes directed to the space of a step before them on the sidewalk to see that it is safe for them to tread there. They know that it is the duty of the City to keep its sidewalks in a suitable condition, and they have a right to presume that the City has performed its duty.

This duty of the town or city (provided it has notice) is not affected by the manner in which the defect occurs, nor by the cause from which the unsafe condition arises. And while they do not guaranty that accidents and injuries shall not occur, yet, having notice, they are liable for all injuries which any person exercising ordinary care sustains by reason of the highway not being safe and convenient. In Farron vs. Greene, (32 Me., 574,) ordinary care is defined to be, not such care as prudent persons generally exercise, but "such care as persons of common prudence generally exercise." And it could not be otherwise, for the highways are for the use of all, old and young; the intelligent and the ignorant; the prudent and the imprudent; the careful and the careless; the thoughtful and the thoughtless; and "at all seasons" and times. It is the common prudence of all such that the law has reference to, and all such the law protects. Children of the proper age to attend school, have the right to pass upon the sidewalks of the cities and towns for that purpose, without a guard; and if they exercise the common prudence of children, the highway must be safe and convenient for them to pass and repass upon, with such ordinary care.

In Bacon vs. City of Boston (3 Cush, 174,) the plaintiff received an injury by stepping into an opening into the sidewalk, thirty-seven inches long and extending into the sidewalk fourteen inches in width. The street was laid out in 1842, and the aperture in question was made at that time, and continued unchanged to the time of the accident. The plaintiff offered evidence tending to show that in Boston there were three hundred and ninety-nine cellar-doors which were open; five hundred and twelve passage-ways extending into the street more than six inches, and six hundred and four cellar windows extending into the street more than that distance; and it was contended that the Jury had the right to infer, from there being such a number, and so long continued, that they were not actionable obstructions. But the Court said: "The law is clear. The liability for injuries occasioned by defects in the public streets attaches to the city, and this liability extends to the sidewalks when they constitute a part of the public streets. As such they are to be kept in a safe and convenient state of repair for public use. It does not vary the principle or discharge the liability, that individuals, as owners of the fee, are permitted to use the premises above or below the easement, for private purposes, not inconsistent with the rights of the public. What will constitute obstructions rendering a public way unsafe and inconvenient for the traveller, must depend, in a great degree, upon the locality of the road. In the present case, the entire sidewalk was only six and a half feet in width. A sidewalk of this width, in the City of Boston, should be, for its whole extent, so constructed and fitted for use as to be safe for all persons passing over it."

There was no error in the case at bar, on the charge of the Court as given to the jury, and to have charged as requested by plaintiff in error, would have been to instruct them that the occupants in this case, whoever they were, careful or careless, drunk or sober, could open this cellar-way whenever they pleased, keep it open as long as they pleased, and leave it as unguarded as they pleased. There was no necessity at all for this opening in the sidewalk. The uses of the building could have been just as well subserved by a scuttle inside the building as in the sidewalk outside. It is not like the case of erecting or repairing a building, constructing a drain, or the like. Whatever use an adjoining owner makes of a highway, it must always be subject to the paramount right of the public to have it safe and convenient. The opinion in this case will appear hereafter.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT.

Before Judge Betts.

This case was resumed yesterday morning at 11 o'clock.

Mr. Evarts, counsel for the claimants, called upon the representatives of the Government to define clearly their position, that the indictments against the Meteor were six in number, and he wished to know, before entering into the defence, upon which of these the Government intended to rely.

At the suggestion of the Court, and in compliance with the request of counsel for claimants, the District-Attorney consented to define the position taken by the Government; in other words, what they claim to have proved by the testimony given during the hearing of the case, and the proof upon which they rely for a conviction.

Mr. Evarts stated that it was not his purpose to advance any testimony, being satisfied with that given by the witnesses called by the Government.

Mr. Webster then arose to state the position of the Government and that which they claimed to have proved.

1. That certain parties were knowingly concerned in the fitting out and furnishing the vessel.

2. That these persons were so concerned with intent that the vessel should be used in the interest of Chili to cruise or commit hostilities against Spain.

Following these propositions come the proofs in evidence:

First—A letter from Robert B. Forbes, describing the Meteor as a vessel-of-war, and giving in detail her prodigious power for destruction. There is no pretence that she is or ever was designed to be a vessel of peaceful commerce.

Second—The evidence of the Secretary of State that war existed and does exist between Spain and Chili, and that the United States are at peace with both these nations.

Third—The evidence of the Secretary of State that Rogers was Consul of Chili during the period while the persons alleged were concerned in fitting out the Meteor.

Fourth—The testimony of McKenna that he is a resident of Chili; that he left Chili Oct. 1, 1865, and arrived here Nov. 19, 1865; that he was appointed a special agent for Chili before he left his home; that he now holds that office in this country; that his commission was in Court.

Fifth—The testimony of Kirk, a Government Inspector, who made an official examination of the Meteor the day before she attempted to sail, and reported to the Surveyor of the Port that she had an excessive quantity of stores on board, a large quantity of coal, no freight, a quantity of arms; that a great many of the stores were marked "Reserved Stores;" that the first officer said he had signed papers for a year, but expected to be back in three months.

Sixth—The evidence of Wright, the ship broker, who swears that he knows Rogers and McKenna; that he first saw Rogers at his house Dec. 10, 1865, and McKenna a few days prior to Jan. 22, 1866; that Byron, Conklin and Nicholls came to him about Dec. 1, 1865, to purchase the Meteor, and Rogers, Consul of Chili, informed him that these persons were authorized by him to make negotiations therefor; that he communicated with Messrs. Forbes, who said that anything Cary did was the same as if done by the owners of the Meteor; that he saw Cary, and told him (Dec. 14, 1865,) that he wanted to purchase the Meteor for parties who represented the Chilian Government; that Cary replied that he had already been in negotiation with the Chilian Government, and it had no money; that he replied to Cary, in substance, that that difficulty was or could be removed; that Cary was in one room of Wright's office, and the Chilian agents in the other, and Wright bearing question and answer back and forth from one party to the other; that the only obstacle suggested by Cary was want of cash funds; that Cary some days after, on Dec. 26, 1865, came again to Wright's office to see what progress Wright had made; that he had interviews with Rogers about fitting out the Meteor for Chili; that Rogers said the special agent of Chili was here, and wanted to buy armed vessels, and Wright replied that armed vessels could not be got out of this port; that Rogers said they wanted to purchase vessels like the Meteor; that on Thursday or Friday, before the Meteor was seized, Wright told Rogers that he understood the Chilian Government had bought the Meteor, and Rogers replied that he believed McKenna had "made some arrangement for the Meteor," and that he (Wright) always supposed from what Rogers said and did, that Byron, Conklin, and Mr. Nicholls were employed to procure vessels for him or McKenna.

Seventh—Mr. Nicholls confirms, strengthens, and reinforces everything Wright says about Rogers and McKenna desiring and attempting to fit out war vessels in this port for Chili. These two witnesses leave no possible shadow of doubt that the Consul and special agents of Chili were concerned in the business of violating the neutrality of the United States. Rogers was the head and inspiring fount of the Meteor negotiations, next to McKenna.

Upon these proofs confirmatory of the propositions preceding the Government relied for a confiscation, and yet in addition to this were the proofs in the evidence of Capt. Nicholls.

Mr. Evarts followed in an argument of several hours' duration, in which he cited the various acts relating to breaches of the neutrality laws, by which he claimed that citizens of the United States have a right to deal in war material and vessels-of-war, with either of the contending parties to a war. That it was never intended that the building of ships-of-war should be interfered with; that a ship-of-war was a legitimate article of commerce in a home port, and that all this was proven to be so even so recently as during the war in the Crimea. Having clearly shown the extent and limit of the rights of citizens in this direction, he then went on to define what really was a breach of the neutrality laws and the punishment which followed it. This, he said, was limited to actual participation, directly or indirectly, in the war with the one party or against the other party.

He then entered upon the question of the forfeiture of the ship and to interpret the law as laying it down that confiscation of the vessel can only follow on the personal conviction of her owner or owners for violation of the act prohibiting participation in the hostilities in the manner set down in the section. In other words, that the forfeiture of the ship follows on the proof of the completion of the personal crime. From these principles of law laid down, Mr. Evarts proposes to show the innocence of all crime, under the act, of the parties in this action, and consequently that the vessel is not subject to confiscation, and to be released.

The case, at the request of Mr. Evarts, who is unexpectedly called out of town, was here adjourned till Saturday morning at 11 o'clock.

The Michigan Southern and Northern Indiana Railroad Stock—Argument Relative to the Injunction Postponed to Saturday next.

SUPERIOR COURT—SPECIAL TERM—APRIL 9.

Before Justice McCunn.

Daniel Drew vs. George S. Scott, R. S. Capron, W. E. Strong and S. F. Massett.—At the hour appointed yesterday for the argument of the motion in relation to the temporary injunction granted at the instance of the plaintiff the latter part of last week, there was a large attendance in the Court-room. Mr. Drew appeared by his counsel, Messrs. David D. Field and T. G. Shearman; the defendants by their counsel, Messrs. Sterne and Chittenden. Mr. Field made application to the Court to have the argument put off, and after considerable delay and talk upon either side, the Court directed that the motion be postponed to Saturday next, April 14, at 11 A. M.

This case, the particulars of which, so far as they could then be ascertained, were published in the TIMES of Saturday last, has created an unusual interest in and around Wall-street, and much feeling was manifest yesterday in the Court-room about the time the motion was called on for argument. The plaintiff's complaint, on which the injunction was granted, we have already given to our readers. Below we give the affidavit of Robert L. Cutting, Esq., President of the New-York Stock Exchange, which was filed yesterday.

TITLE OF THE CAUSE.

State of New-York, City and County of New-York, ss.—Robert L. Cutting being duly sworn, says that he is President of the New-York Stock Exchange, wherein the firm of Scott, Capron & Co., aforesaid, is represented by Stephen F. Massett.

Deponent says that he has not and never has had any knowledge that the said firm or either of its members ever were party to or united with any combination, conspiracy, plot, plan or design to defraud the said Daniel Drew.

No copy of the supplemental complaint herein has been served upon deponent. Deponent further says that in the afternoon of April 5, 1866, at 28 minutes past 2 o'clock, and as deponent believes with the purpose of retaining fair standing in the said Exchange, Messrs. David Groesbeck & Co., for themselves, authorized him to buy two thousand shares of Michigan Southern and Northern Indiana Railroad stock. This authority was publicly announced by deponent, and, as he believes, in the presence of a member of the firm of Scott, Capron & Co., in the room occupied by the members of the said New-York Stock Exchange. R. L. CUTTING.

Sworn to before me this 9th day of April, 1866.

S. F. SIMPSON,
Notary Public for the City and County of New-York.

For plaintiff, D. D. Field, Esq.; for defendants, Sterne and Chittenden, Esqs.

Notice to the Bar.

A SECRET FOR THE PUBLIC.

We have heard of some dentists who don't approve of SOZODONT. What is their real objection to it? Simply this: it preserves the teeth; and sordid interests whisper that the decay of the teeth is their bread and butter. Eminent members of the profession in all parts of the country indorse and recommend it.

NOTICE.

To landlords and agents renting their places to lottery and policy men: A complaint will be entered against all such gambling places, and proceedings will at once be commenced on all owners and agents renting their places as such, and kept up, as it is a duty all good respectable business men owe to themselves to see this nefarious business stopped, as more money is stolen and lost in lottery and policy gambling than all the others put together. All respectable business men who are in favor of seeing this system of gambling frauds stopped, will address J. W., Jersey City, N. J.
